GRAND BATTAL FASER

Michigan Commander Makes Tour of Investigation.

TWO BATTERIES MAKE CAMP

San Antonio, Tex.,—General Bell and his staff arrived here last night and this morning will be in the city. The Michigan infantry and other units from that state which have at last reached the Mexican border, after a long and arduous journey, are preparing for orders to move, expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the camp in which the Thirty-first and Thirty-second Michigan have spent the past few weeks here.

General Kirk made a tour of investigation, accompanied by Lieutenants McLaughlin and Bell, and Captains and Lieutenants Norton and Liles, who were in charge of the camp during the absence of the Thirty-first and Thirty-second regiments on their hike to Los Capos, N. M.

All expressed themselves as pleased with the camp, which they declared was in much better shape than they had seen in any other place. The soldiers and the surrounding country.

Batteries A and B made camp between a point Newhart and Fort Bliss, about four miles from the city and five from Camp Cotton. They live in the same camp with the Ohio and Illinois units, but have separate officers and men, enjoying the same conditions, sunny climate and register of escaping from the cold winter of Grayline.

More Schools to Teach Farming.

Lansing, Mich.,—In 12 additional Michigan high schools will be offered the opportunity this year of acquiring the fundamentals of farming through new courses which have been established in a dozen towns. The total number of schools now offering agriculture as part of the high school curriculum is 90. In the 48 schools which were added to the list of offerings last year were opened, according to Prof. W. H. French of M. A. C., who has directed the agricultural departments in the state at large.

These schools into which agriculture was introduced this fall are: Colon, Durand, Elk Rapids, Frankfort, Howell, Lawson, Marquette, Otsego, Sault Ste. Marie, Three Rivers, Traverse City and Vicksburg. M. A. C. graduates have been placed in charge of the new departments in all of them.

Fellows Refuses Ruling.

Hundreds of letters have been received by Attorney General Fellows asking for an opinion on the constitutionality of a proposed amendment in case it receives a majority vote at the November election, and the proposed amendment will be the subject of the next session.

This far the attorney general has refused to render an opinion and there is no reason to believe that the legal department will change its position after the constitutional convention is organized.

Even the best lawyers in the state agree that there is a real legal question involved in case both amendments are adopted. Some of the attorneys take the ground that the amendment drafted by the House is unconstitutional.

Others contend that in a majority of the people favor each amendment of the state-wide prohibition amendment will take precedence and the state will be dry, and the lawyers who believe the state-wide prohibition amendment will supersede the honorable amendment is Edwin Rowden, attorney for the Michigan state bar.

However, if both amendments are adopted, it is generally conceded that legal proceedings will be started which will eventually end in the Supreme court of the United States.

To Avoid "Price-Fixing"

Hereafter James N. McBride, director of markets for the Michigan Agriculture college, will confine his efforts to selling to farmers and consumers together. In the future his suggestions will be offered by him to farmers as to what prices they should charge for their products, or recommending "price-fixing" or recommending
