

Prompt Action Will Save You Money

It is now only a matter of a few weeks before the price of the Fairfield "Six-46" will be substantially increased.

As every business man knows, the costs of materials and labor have been soaring for the past year—and are still soaring. Many commodities cost twice as much as they did even six months ago.

So, of course, there is only one thing for a manufacturer to do—increase the selling price of his product in proportion to the increased cost of materials.

We absolutely refuse to "compromise" on the quality of Paige cars. We insist upon using the best materials no matter what they may cost.

So, now is the time to act if you are interested in saving money. The best of all light sixes can now be purchased for $1375. If you wait too long, the opportunity will be gone.

Remember, the Paige Company challenges any manufacturer in the industry to produce a car which is worth hundreds of dollars of the Paige price—which offers as much luxury, comfort and all around dependability as the Fairfield "Six-46". This challenge stands unopposed.

Won't you make it a point to see the Paige Dealer today?

Not Just What He Meant.

The newspaper of industry that is a fortunate friend of mine, even a person of great experience will, however, in distress, say the wrong thing. A certain clergyman was officiating at a funeral of a wealthy parishioner. He was particularly anxious to show his good feeling and sympathy; so at a critical moment during the funeral service he turned to the congregation and said: "Dearly beloved, many a time I have handled this corpse up on my knee!"

One Monograph Lost to Literature.

"The other day," said Bert M. Aull, Chiggett's popular monographer, "I sat down to write a monograph on the Pettibone family. It was a great thought—it thrilled me. But mine is a sternly logical mind. The more the truth of my story I tried to remember, the more clear it became that it would have to give up writing the monograph. For writing also is futile!"—Kansas City Star.

Glass Poles.

A European concern is now building telegraph and telephone poles of glass. The glass is molded over a thick framework of woven wire, which adds to the strength of the pole. These poles will neither rot nor rust and insects will not attack them. Unless broken by an unusual accident, they will last forever, and now that timber is so expensive in Europe, they are fit to be made there instead of wood poles.—The American Boy.

Brains Not Everything.

"People have got brains on the brain," declared Spurgeon. "If you say that you don't like a person, someone is sure to remark, 'Oh, but he is so clever!' as if that were a recommendation in itself for liking a person. Cleverness is not everything. Some people are the very things that fill you with distrust of a person—the more they are the more dangerous they are. Make the most of your brain, but don't think they are the only things worth cultivating."

Disregarded Properties.

The minister was calling, and just as he was about to depart he halted to ask a blessing. Three parrots flew, whose notion of prayer was associated only with bedtime, looked on in open wonder. Finally he interrupted the earnest parrot by blurted out: "Minister, mister, you can't do that without a nightie!"

Real Stroke of Genius.

A genius has invented a plan that weighs only 12 pounds. The tired hags who want to rest their feet can throw that sized plan into the back yard when Julie Ann persists in pounding it.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Penalty for a Good Reputation

When an article has been on the market for years and has given complete satisfaction when used in thousands of homes it creates for itself a valuable reputation, yet at the same time this good reputation, as a result of its popularity, is a liability. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound enjoys a splendid reputation for it has been used for three generations. Its fair name and high repute have created a demand for it, and to supply this demand at a greater profit imitations and substitutes are offered. Purchasers who know the original cannot be fooled by any "just as good" or "better" article. The great effort of any one who wants a reliable remedy to last up to the mark is to get the original and genuine Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, which has proven itself valuable for the relief of colds, cough and whooping cough.

FATTEN ALL SURPLUS MALES

Pumpkins Found Quits Gains—Fishes Fine in Flavor.

A poultry breeder who experimented with pumpkins for fattening a pen of surplus cockerels, put five cockerels in a fattening cage, covered with canvas to keep it cool. The birds were fed four times a day—two meals of boiled carrots, to which had been added cornmeal for stiffening; one meal of boiled pumpkins, mixed with ground oats and cornmeal for stiffening, and one meal of whole corn. Milk and water were supplied for drinking; also grit and chaff.

At the end of 18 days the birds had made a gain of over two pounds each, and the fish was said to be exceptionally fine in flavor and quality of meat.

NUMBER OF MALES IN FLOCK

With Small Breeds One Rooster to Ten or Fifteen Hens is Considered About Right Number.

The following is generally considered the proper number of females to one male: The small breeds, ten to fifteen females; medium breeds, eight to ten females; large breeds, six to ten females. Geese in pairs, and turkeys about one male to five females. Stock on free range may be mated in large numbers.

DON'T CROWD LITTLE CHICKS

Endeavor to Keep Young Corns in Small Flocks—Feed All Females With Litter.

Avoid crowding by keeping chicks in small flocks and bedding all corners with plenty of litter. Fresh straw or dried grass serves this purpose for large chicks, clean chaff or shavings for baby chicks.

Very often shavings can be prepared free of charge at the mill.

EGG AVERAGE IN AUSTRALIA

Pen of Six Leghorns Averaged Over 283 Eggs Each in Year—Room for Better Selection.

In an egg-laying contest in Australia, a pen of six Leghorns averaged a little over 283 eggs each in one year. One hen laid 588 birds—441 in the contest—average 272 eggs each.

Think of that and then recall that the average for the United States is less than 75. Certainly there is room for better selection, care and feeding. There is money in doing this part of our farming right.

VERMIN WORK MUCH DAMAGE

Weakens Fowls of All Ages So That They Fall Easy Prey to Diseases of Germs of All Kinds.

Lives of all kinds not only torment the fowls but make them feel and live miserable, but they weaken them so that they fall easy prey to disease germs which otherwise they might be able to throw off.

Willing to Be a Guest.

Helen went to eat dinner with her grandmother, but she wasn't home. Helen knew the woman next door so she went there. The woman lived alone. She had her table set and was just ready to eat. Helen looked earnestly into her face and said: "Wouldn't you just as soon set your table for two?"

TIME TO MARKET-DUCKLINGS

Success Achieved by Feeding Fowls. All They Can Eat Until Fowls Are Ten Weeks Old.

Too many small duck growers make little or no profit from their year's labor, simply because they are ignorant of the proper time to market their ducklings. Success comes only by feeding the ducks all they can eat from the time they are hatched until they are ten weeks old and then sending them right away to market.

If the ducklings are hatched early, so the top prices may be secured, they can be sold when nine weeks old. But never keep ducklings that are to be marketed longer than 12 weeks, no matter how backward they are. After this period the ducklings begin to grow their adult plumage and rapidly lose in weight and therefore will not be fit to kill until they are 18 or 20 weeks old.

It is necessary to force your ducklings to the greatest possible extent. If they are not ready for market in ten weeks, and have to be kept ten weeks longer no other will make no profit or lose in the bargain. At the older age they will not bring nearly as much as great ducks and will have cost you nearly twice their worth.
