GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home for weeks and suffer for loaded shells. I was suffering. Mother told me that I suffered every month and she said, 'I wonder don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?'"

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

Suggestion for Dainty and Useful Frock, Appropriate for Any Occasion—Charmeuse or Panna Velvet the Best Materials to Be Employed—Three Styles That Are Among the Best of the New Hats.

Here is a frock for afternoon wear which will give its owners the sense of being well and appropriately dressed for many occasions. It is made of one of the soft weaves of silk or satin which are cherished with new names occasionally...

The skirt is straight hanging and weighted with a wide line. The side panels are shirred into many parallel folds at the top, which extend to the pockets. The large pockets are featured in this model by covering them with an embroidered pattern which introduces fine needlework threads among those of heavy silk that make up the design.

The skirt is joined to the bodice at the normal waistline, and the leaflets open down the front. It is cut in at the neck, extending to the bust line, and buttons from there to the bottom with small satin-covered buttons. A narrow collar of fine organdie or batiste finishes the neck opening.

The sleeves are plain to the elbow. From this point to the wrist they are slender. They have been chosen from many others that are destined to add zest to life for the younger women during the coming winter. Two of these hats are broad brimmed, dignified and picturesque shapes, and the third is a moderately small lacy hat.

The hat on the left is of gray velvet with rose crepe and has a crown covered by rows of champagne of the same shade of gray as the velvet. The trim is wide and draped a little. It is trimmed with a flat rose made of satin in dark rose shades.

The small hat at the right is in purple. The question arises as to what breed of live stock is best adapted to the conditions and will insure the largest returns. Long experience has proved the combination of beef and milk production the most profitable and best adapted to the conditions of the country.

The breed of cattle that meets the needs of this large category of average farms, that can be raised on a profitable return, is the breed that experience has shown combine a profitable yield of beef and milk, and that several breeds that combine to a greater or less degree these characteristics.

The Shorthorn is the most widely disseminated and best adapted to greater numbers for all generations. The distinctive characteristics of the breed are adapted to the conditions described. When not in milk, the cow readily takes on flesh, and if occasionally she does not yield a liberal flow, she quickly converts the feed consumed into beef and milk.

No color takes precedence over type, which is another name for mode, this season, and mole skin has outdistanced other furs. Wide scarfs of it made up with crinoid and snuffier neckpieces made to match hats in color and is shown in other colors. It has a pert bow pinned on the left near its edge, finished with a long pointed end.

The big hat at the bottom of the picture is of white laces with pink velvet in the color of mole skin. There is a heavy shawl-like lattice work about the side crown, in the same color as the facing, and three little ostrich tips, also in same, are pinned at the back as if to draw attention to the lift in the brim.

A small pointed apple of velvet is set in two velvet leaves at the right front.

One is sure in using almost any of the common cow or pig diets on the market for disinfecting poultry-houses. The most inexpensive of these products are the common stock disinfectants that are sold at about 10 cents of the poultry supply on the market are no more than the stock dips ready for use.

The eggs of mites hatch in from seven to ten days, so in order to get rid of vermin it is necessary to follow the two-week rule. Occasionally the entire house should be sprayed. The spray is made up to a strength of 3 per cent or three parts coal tar up to 97 parts of water.

Common kerosene is also effective in getting rid of lice and mites. It is used in proportion of 97 parts kerosene to three parts coal-tar preparation. The ordinary hand or bucket spray pump is used. The most effective and economical disinfectant that can be used at any time of the year is sunshine.

LIVE STOCK IS NECESSARY FOR FERTILITY

HERD OF DUAL-PURPOSE SHORTHORN COWS. (By FRANK D. TOMSON.) Comparatively few farms are adapted to strictly special purposes and fewer farmers are inclined to specialized locations. The income on the farm is usually of larger value when derived from several sources.

The Live Stock Journal, London, England, July 29 issue, states cordially as follows: "In the matter of the adaptability of breeds it never be forgotten that the great benefit to be derived from the world over has been the Shorthorn. The milk stock of New England and the Longhorn of Texas have received their first impulse from the Shorthorn."

Sharp Teeth. It pays to keep plow points and cultivator teeth sharp. A dull tool will never do effective work.

Fresh Air and Sunlight. Fresh air and sunlight in the farmer's house and barn will promote the health of his family and his cattle.

Using Old Methods. There is no need for any farmer to keep on farming in the same old hazardous way.

Cause of Epidemics. Epidemics of scarlet fever and diphtheria are caused by contaminated milk.

SPEEDING IS UNDER A BAN OLD PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK KIDNEYS

Stripped to a wagon in full view of all the children in a day, they of 10 days' pay and loss to the wife of the man's allotment" was the punishment awarded by a field court-martial to a driver who was slightly injured by exceeding the speed limit. Was Mr. Lloyd-George aware of the case? Mr. C. Watson asks.

The court martial was quite within its rights, in the reply of the war office. Very strict regulations have been laid down to prevent reckless driving in France. The authorities, there having had their attention called to a number of cases where children had been injured owing to that cause.

Of Course Not. "The engineers of both trains lost their heads." "Then it was not a head-on collision."

Save the Babies. INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in twenty-two years one percent, or more than one-third, before they reach one year; thirty-seven percent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are ten.

Smuggling Cotton. Since cotton became contraband all sorts of ingenious devices have been used to get it through the blockade. One ship which was intercepted carried what purported to be a cargo of flour. Certainly there was a great deal of flour in it, and a great deal of cotton as well.

OH! MY BACK. A stubborn backache is cause to most people trouble. When the pain gets to be unbearable, the patient is often driven to a desperate remedy. It is a relief to find a better recommended remedy.
