Why We Do Such an Immense Business

It is not our location alone, for naturally people think of going down town when intending to buy Furniture, Stoves, altogether, for hardly one in f of our customers come to us fr reading our advertisements.

I am not an advertising writer am not imaginative enough Many advertisements are as re ASSOED FROM QUICKSAND what I know is true, and that is, because of our suburban location and deing the immense wedo, our percentage for selling expenses is lower than any othey dealer's anywhere. Therefore we can sell for much less.

I know nearly all dealers claim to do the same—sell for the lowest. But do you think that the prices they sell at would draw to them a city store's volume of business, if they were situated on a side street in a small suburban town?

The reason that we do such a large business is because we sell our entire line at prices lower than anyone else,

The one person attracted by our advertising passes the word on until it fetches the four more. This is the reason we do such a large business. We do just what we tell you we will do—sell the best goods at the lowest prices anywhere.

We do not have elegant showfrooms, nor the other usual extension and the subusiness.

prices anywhere.

We do not have elegant show rooms, nor the other usual expensive frills used to attract buyers. While all the Wood ward Suburban Cars pass ou doors, we are not right under your nose; and to get there, you have to come here, taking the car for perhaps the opposite of rection from what you usuall do when Furniture buying.

We will place in your bother it.
