Have you got your tickets yet on Mrs. Edgar Parks' painting of an old lady mending socks? The proceeds of this picture will be turned over to our local chapter of the Red Cross. Surely all of us can afford to do this much more for Red Cross work. The tickets are selling well. They can be bought at The Birmingham Hardware. The picture merits your interest. At least, it costs nothing to see it in Slusser's window. Help make this plan a success.

The Literary Digest for June 22, page 29, says: "Between May 15 and June 1 there were seven attacks on British hospitals in France. The casualties numbered 991." On this same page Philip Gibbs describes the bombing of the British hospital-camp on May 19. You should read it all. Your blood will boil and curdle. We must at least bind up the wounds of our boys after they have gone to fight for our safety. If we will not do that much, we are not worth fighting for.

He who can forget the little ones that is mangled 50 fathoms deep under the shattered hulk of the Lusitania; who has no reverence for the dead and their devotion, no prayer for the dying and their anguish, no pity for the wounded and the broken; whose blood is not quickened by our perils, whose heart is not softened by our pains; who reads unmoved of blasted homes and wasted countrysides, of desolated cities, and desecrated shrines, of heroic Belgium overrun but not conquered; of epic France and the noble dead that lie buried there—the great dead that fought and the innocent dead that merely wept and waited. He who can forget these things, or be indifferent to the sacrifices and the sorrows, the bereavements, and the burdens of Freedom's Gethsemanes—that man is a Hun at heart, for the crimes that none but a Hun can commit, none but a Hun can forget! After a reading of this do you not feel more desirous than ever of saving to the utmost of your capacity and of buying War Savings Stamps?

MAKING THE BLIND SEE.

In Washington, D. C., under the very eyes of the members of the House Military Affairs Committee who have held for weeks to commit the bill providing for osteopathic physicians in the army, a soldier who has been blind for seventeen months was cured of his blindness by one osteopathic treatment. The following is from the story told in the Washington Times by Signaller Tom Skeyhill.

"When I entered the operating room at Garfield Memorial Hospital I had little hope that osteopathy could do anything for me. This idea was removed shortly however, for within a few minutes after Dr. Moore began manipulating the back of my neck at the apex of the spinal column I experienced a sharp exruciating pain. Then, as if by magic, little flashes of light began to come before my heretofore dimmed eyes, and before I realized just what was taking place I found I could see. * * *

"The battle in which I was blinded was fought on the Gallipoli peninsula December 8, 1916. We were charging up a steep declivity when there was an awful explosion, and I, among others, staggered back and fell to the ground. I was unconscious for some time, but at last came a sense of returning consciousness, which was followed by the dread realization that though still alive, I was blind.

"Regular physicians ascribed my condition to shell shock and were not at all encouraged as to the possibility of my ever regaining sight. I, however, kept on with hundreds of physicians, some famous specialists in England, France and the United States, who examined my eyes all coming to the same conclusion that only a medical miracle could save me from going through life in the black mists."

Now that Moore has, by a simple manipulation, restored my sight I shall proclaim his name wherever I go and tell my audience wherever I speak, of the simple manner in which this man brought my sight back to me."

Let us hope that this occurence will make the blind members of the House Military Affairs Committee see a great light and realize that the osteopathic profession has something to offer the soldiers and sailors that the old school has not. Let's ask them again to resurrect the bill that has been buried so many weeks.

COUNTY CAMP MADE FOSSIBLE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG BOYS.

Responding to an earnest appeal from some parts of the country the Y. M. C. A. camp committee are arranging for an extension of their camp dates to include younger boys from 10 to 13 from July 8-13; for girls 10-15 years of age from July 13-18, and for girls 15-20 from July 17-22.

The only requirement for the use of the camp by the younger boys and girls of these ages is that they attend in groups of five or more and be accompanied by an older leader. Applications should be placed at once with the county secretary at Pontiac. A sufficient number have already enrolled to insure the additional sections on the above dates but the capacity of the camp and its equipment is of course limited.

Two log cabins are nearing completion at the camp as an experiment to replace the same number of tent's for sleeping quarters. After one inspection of these picturesque and rustic cabins it is a forgone conclusion that they will add much to the comfort of the boys and to the permanency and beauty of the camp.

A new well has been driven and the dining and cook house re-roofed and shingled.

RED CROSS BULLETIN.

The story is being circulated in Birmingham that the Red Cross has two barrels of knitted goods which it has ripped up just for the purpose of supplying yarn to knitters. This is simply German propaganda, and is malicious falsehood. No knitted garments whatsoever have been ripped out, except where a garment has been made too small for use. Persons repeating such stories lay themselves liable to prosecution.

For the rest of the month the Red Cross rooms will be open on Monday and Thursday afternoons only, the days of gauze work having been completed. There will be plenty of yarn for socks, and the chairman of knitting requests all knitted work to be returned promptly. Persons who have had yarn for several weeks are urged to finish the work or return the yarn so that the garments may be turned in by the last of the month.
