What Dan Reed of U. S. Food Commission to France Told 5,000 People At Two Big Overflow Meetings At Ft. Bliss.

Our boys are in sunny France, but they are not in the sunny part of France. The fact that our boys are over there fighting for us places a responsibility on us that we must meet or be branded as traitors.

The thought that clings to me—the one that I can't shake off—a little phrase of our guide who, time and again pointing out a few scattered bricks or a piece of cur, said "There was a table here."

When America told the people of France that she would send 20,000 airplanes and a million men over there, they believed it, they believe implicitly in what we have said to them and we've got to make good.

The soldiers of America and France are coming behind the lines in France during their rest periods, to supply the food that is needed for them to eat.

What we'll be proud of our boys over there and what they are doing for their country and my hope is that when they come back they will be as proud of the people over here.
