Detroit on the Campus.

At the Detroit Opera House (on the Campus) next week, beginning Sunday night, December 1st, Orlin Moore will present the smart comedy, "Lombardi, Ltd.," by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, with the original Company headed by Leo Carrillo. "Lombardi, Ltd.," was an all-season success in New York last year, and played a long engagement in Chicago this summer and autumn. Detroit is one of the first cities outside of those two in which this play will be seen. The new management of the Detroit Opera House announces many novelties such as "Lombardi," which will be noted there for the initial performances in the city. "Lombardi, Ltd." is the story of a male model; a temperamental Italian, who thinks that he is in love with one of his customers, but when disaster threatens him, then he is able to pick out the true friends from the false, and to see that it is really his little shop assistant to whom his heart belongs. Mr. Carrillo's performance of Tito Lombardi was hailed as one of the triumphs of character acting of the past season in New York. Also in the Company are Grace Valentine as the movie mat mannequin, Mary Kennedy, Warner Buxter, Winifred Bryson, Marion Abbott, Jane Meredith, Hallam Bosworth, Ina Rourke, Helen Wolcott, Charles Wellesley and Harold Russell.
