

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Women's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attend the making of this great medicine for women's ills.

Over 550,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation, which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The lessons from women who have been cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

General Pershing's War Maps.

In installing General Pershing's war maps in the old National Museum building in Washington, the commander's room at the front just as it looked when the map was in actual use, is being reproduced as a setting. Here will be the chairs used by the general and his aids while they studied the maps, which changed hourly, night and day, as reports came and were recorded. The table at which the officers looked over documents will stand as it used to at one side, and the walls will be covered with the identical linoleum that was a background for the map. The map was brought over in pieces now joined together, and the conventional design of the linoleum is said to give an excellent illustration to the room in which General Pershing watched history writing itself in a very literal sense on the wall.

A Fair Proposition.

"Mr. Grabow, I've saved up $3,000 and I want to marry your daughter."

"Do you realize that $3,000 won't last long nowadays?"

"Oh, yes, sir. But it ought to take care of us for at least six months and at the end of that time if I haven't convinced you that I'm an ideal son-in-law you needn't do a thing for us."

As I've had to live with ourselves we should see to it that we always have good company.

Reverses as Business Man Credited With Making Mark Twain a Successful Writer

Mark Twain's failure as a business man is said to have made him a greater writer, instead of having discouraged the humorist in his work. The story goes that his publishers crumbled after having published "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" and "The American Chairman." The first work was a success, but the second was not. For that purpose, the publishers folded themselves in different directions. Twain and he took it without a murmur.

William Sooy Smith Built the First All-Steel Bridge

William Sooy Smith, builder of the first all-steel bridge in the world and inventor of the pneumatic caisson, was born in Ohio July 22, 1839; graduated at West Point in 1863; resigned from the army, but served during the Civil War, and later became an inventor and a civil engineer and bridge builder. His invention of the pneumatic caisson revolutionized deep river bridge building, and he was the first one to overcome obstacles in building foundations. He was also a pioneer in using concrete buildings and in the construction of skyscrapers. He was retired from the army with rank of brigadier general, and died January 17, 1912.

Songs of the Club Workers

By the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

All the birds must make the ground; All the ants must make the mound. All together in the chorus: O'er their work they go, O'er their work they go. O'er their work they go, O'er their work they go.

Their fresh young voices, if all went this way, would be fresh all day in this distance. They can see the hill around, the grove of trees, the road. You know they are the club boys, for to the tune of "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" they are singing.

Grow, grow, grow a little, O'er their work they go, O'er their work they go. Grow, grow, grow a little, O'er their work they go, O'er their work they go.

Close behind them are some singing birds, and now they are singing: Sing, sing, sing, sing, sing, sing, sing, sing, sing, sing.

Guy Morton Promises to Put Cleveland Indians in Limelight This Season

Guy Morton, of the Cleveland Indians, bids fair to prove the sentiment of the American League. Early in the season he pitched two full games without allowing a run.

His first big-league season equaled his shut-out season of 1911 and 1912.

Several years ago Morton suffered an injury to his arm. It was found to be so bad that he was thought to be a total loss. He was, however, to be rehabilitated.

He pitched well last season, and this spring he shined in New Orleans.

Guy Morton, on the training trip that he had received his old form.

Cleveland has been generally picked as one of the contenders for the American League pennant this season. The only apparent weakness of the Indians in the before-season form was the pitching staff.

With Morton in form to help the ever-existent and effective Stanley Gonsky, Cleveland looks up as an extremely dangerous. In fact, the club that beats the Indians should win the flag.

SALADS AND SANDWICHES.

During the warm weather salad is one of the main features of every dinner. Sandwiches are always popular and during the picnic season indispensable. The easiest always appetizing and the following will at least give enough interest to try it:

Potato Salad.

Grate a little sage-chives over some fresh head lettuce after it is dried and split by breaking over it some freshly roasted poppy seed, which adds an unusual flavor. Serve with French dressing.

Potato Salad.

This is a well-known salad and may be prepared in so many ways that it is always a delight. Cut up the cold boiled potatoes in small cubes and mix with a small finely minced onion, and some corn oil and vinegar, salt and paprika and let stand until nearly time to serve; then add a small quantity and a spoonful or two of any well-seasoned hot dressing. A little peanut butter and cream added to the dressing will give a pleasant flavor, or, for a hot dressing, add a couple of minced onions. A spoonful or two of canned corn also adds much to the flavor, or a finely minced green pepper. This may vary the seasoning and always have a new salad.

Summer Salad.

Cook a quart of lima beans, drain and chill them. Peel and dice two crisp tart apples, add two sweet green peppers, finely shredded mix with mayonnaise; nothing will improve a vegetable salad like onion juice.

Nuts and Green Peas Salad.

Take a cupful of cooked green peas and add one-third of a cupful of walnuts. Serve on lettuce with any desired dressing.

Banana and Pineapple Salad.

Place slices of pineapple on crisp lettuce and in the center place a small cone of banana. Cut the end of each carefully and, without touching the banana with the pineapple. Sprinkle generously with paprika on top and serve with a hot dressing, adding chopped nuts to the dressing if desired.

Olive and Celery Sandwiches.

Chop equal quantities of heart celery and stuffed olives, moisten with olive oil and spread on well-buttered bread.

Mint and Cucumber Sandwich

Slice cucumbers and sprinkle with minced mint, dip in French dressing and add a bit of any hot dressing. Place between slices of buttered bread.

ATONIC FOR YOUR ACID-STOMACH

KNOW THAT YOU STOP HIM

Lawyer Evidently Was Well Acquainted With the Weakness of His Long-Winded Friend.

"C. H. Murphy relates the story of a Philadelphia lawyer, retired, who, in the days of his active practice, was notorious for his long-windedness. In one case involving a lawsuit for six hours, and the end was nowhere in sight, when the opposing attorney beckoned his associate and whispered: "Don't stop him for two minutes." Jack replied confidently. And he wrote and passed to the orator the following note:

"My Dear Colonel—As soon as you finish your magnificent argument I would like you to join me at the hotel in a bumper of rare old Bourbon." The lawyer halted in the midst of an impugned period, put on his glasses, and read the note that had been handed him, then he removed his glasses again, and, taking up his hat and bag, he said:

"And how, may it please the court and perdition of the jury, I leave the case with you."

"A minute later he was proceeding in stately fashion in the direction of the hotel bar.

"You don't know my pal?" he said cynically. "Why, I know you just as well as I do."—Exchange.
