Middle Aged Women

Are Here Told the Best Remedy for Their Troubles.

Freemont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—hot flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GOBDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

North Haven, Conn.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health after everything else had failed when passing through change of life. There is nothing like it to overcome the trying symptoms." —Mrs. FLORENCE ISELLA, Box 197, North Haven, Conn.

Sailing Voyage Pays Little.

The Newfoundland sealing voyage for 1919 ended recently with the sealing craft in port in various ports. Only ten ships, the smallest they have since 1870, prosecuted the industry, the seals numbering 158,000 head, and the total catch amounting to 87,250 pelts, valued at $278,145. This gives a decrease in number of 70,148 and in value of $355,407, compared with the 1918 voyage.

The poor fishing seemed to be due to adverse weather conditions, ice being too closely packed for vessels to navigate properly, and to the fact that the seals were scattered. The price of prime seal pelts was placed at $8 per hundredweight, as against $12 for 1918, and $6.50 to $7 for other qualities as against $9 to $9.50.

"Yes," said the agent, "your car has been ordered. But I'm afraid you'll have to wait several weeks for it. I've just received word from the factory that they haven't a sedan ready to ship."

NOT HIS UNLUCKY NUMBER

Although Unpopular, "Thirteen" Has Been Decidedly Mixed With This Englishman's Life.

Although unpopular, "thirteen" has been decidedly mixed with this Englishman's life, according to the Boston Transcript. Mr. H. G. Coulton, the well-known and popular Fleet Street journalist.

"Mr. Coulton has been literally dogged by the unlucky thirteen. It was on the fifth day of the month that he went to France, that he went into action, got his first leave and returned to take up his commission. It was in the thirteenth tent, in line 13, among 13 that he had his first lodgment in France. The tent contained 13 men. He had 13 days in hospital. He was given No. 13 pills. And, returning to civil work on January 13, he found that his old room had been numbered 113.

"Now count up the coincidences. You will find 13 of them."—Answers, London.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have Kidney and Bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble or the result of kidney disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Such symptoms as backache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times simple symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't make a mistake in treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, is a kidney remedy that should be just the remedy needed to overcome such troubles.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Crawfish Decide to Migrate.

Passengers arriving in New Orleans on a recent Sunday evening by the Louisville & Nashville railroad said the tracks were swarming with crawfish practically the whole distance between Michaud and Chef Menteur. Hundreds were walking along gathering the seafood. Baskets, heavy with squirming, wriggling, pinching crawfish were brought in by scores of persons. Expert fishermen said the fish were crawling back to calm waters to escape the squalls outside.

For Morning Hours and Country Wear

If the female of the species longs to know in what sort of dress she is most fatal to the peace of mind of man, let her ask a few husbands; adroitly, of course, and not with a bald question. If you ask him what sort of dress he likes best the chances are he can't tell you, but if you ask him what sort of dress his wife wore when he met her or when he fell in love with her, his answer will be enlightening. Gentle lady, the chances are that she was dressed in gingham and doing some useful thing—like sewing on buttons, or dusting the furniture when she first looked good to him. Or maybe she was walking along a country road or gathering cherries. So here's the simple morning dress, may it continue to flourish!

Two sweet dresses of the simple but effective kind just referred to keep one another company in the picture above. One of them is a smart little gingham, a one-piece frock with straight skirt slightly pulled to the bodice. It has pockets with an upper portion turned back and fastened down with a button, shows that end in a simple band at the wrist and a demure surplice that crosses and has ends that are looped over in the back. This surplice is overlaid with a collar of white batiste edged with narrow crochet or other strong lace.

The dress at the left of the picture employs striped and plain cotton in its conspiracy to be crisp and becoming in order to fit in with bright mornings and country ways. The wide girdle and front panel with the lower part of the rounded pockets are all of the plain material. There are any number of striped and plain cottons in lovely colors that are made to go together in these morning frocks. The bodice is fastened with snap fasteners at the left of the panel and with three large buttons at the left side of the girdle.

Cut on Straight Lines.

Goods cut on straight lines are much affected by smart women this season. At a recent opening not only were the gowns exhibited straight of line, but there were several capes which were straight and narrow. One showed a cluster of deep tucks which increased the wrap from the shoulder points to the elbow.

THIS HEAD WORTH $10,000

London Doctors Eager to Examine Brain of Man Known as Human Encyclopedia.

Of course you have heard of Dates, the human encyclopedia—the man who can memorize and reel off dates quicker than the fire of a machine gun; the man on whose head the doctors have placed a price of £10,000?

"But I am not anxious to sell it yet for dissection," Dates told a writer for London Tit-Bits the other day. "It is worth more to me than £10,000."

Dates has lately been devouring war facts and had just added a couple of thousand in two and a half hours to his repertoire when we met.

"For an outlay of twopence," he said, "I bought a little book on a bookstall, called 'Two Thousand Facts About the War.' I bought it and read the list through in two and a half hours and then knew it by heart."

There is no doubt about it. I tested Dates with the book in my hand, and no matter what question I asked him—dates of battles, air raids, names of ships sunk, famous generals' careers—he answered them without hesitation, says the writer.

Dates has had many amusing and curious experiences, but the most extraordinary was the friendly dinner he shared with John Lee, the Babbacombe murderer, and the late James Berry, the executioner who tried to Hang— Atlanta Constitution.

Dressed to Kill in "Shell-Cloth."

Shell-cloth is the name of a new fabric being manufactured in England. The cloth is a fine serge and an essential part of projectiles.

And now that the war is over the stuff is going into the making of clothes instead of shells, says the Philadelphia North American. It ought to make "stagger-ingly" good-looking clothes, don't you think? One woman might say quite truly to another: "Oh, my dear, she was dressed to kill, all in shell-cloth."

Or, on the other hand, what clever opportunity for the feminine cut to say that her dear enemy has "shocking taste in the matter of clothes!"

Boy's Bill of Fare.

George Bailey, answering the inquiry, "What is good for a boy to eat?" says:

"At this time of the year, according to the theories extant in North Carolina in 1870, a boy should have daily plenty of green fruit, pine resin, young cucumbers, raw new potatoes, green blackberries, doughnuts, branch water and two hours in the swimming hole."

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and supplying lazy, listless and anaemic by the spirit-lifting blood-and-nerve elixirs of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Weakness and nervousness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as organic phosphate taken among drug-stores as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by building the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance, the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervous, run-down people find luck generally, which nearly always accompany renewed strength and energy. Dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.—adv.

BITRO-PHOSPHATE is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness, and general weakness, it also helps many create a fine form and beautiful weight the kind that anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.
