Course Taken by Germany Resembles Closely Next Trick That is Credited to Sheridan.

"The Germans, by feeding us with German holsteins, hoped to escape the payment of war indemnities," said a congressman.

"It reminds me of a story about Sheridan, the spendthrift playwright. "Gunter, the confidante, left his statement with Sheridan one morning, and a few hours later Hanson, the Ironmonger, called."

"Hanson was very pressing on the subject of his account. He harangued and he harangued. Sheridan, broke, as usual, passed the floor in despair. "But suddenly an idea struck the spendthrift and he said:

"You know Gunter?"

"One of the safest men in London," Hanson replied.

"Then you will be satisfied if I give you his bill for the amount?"

"Certainly."

"Sheridan thereupon handed the Ironmonger Gunter's neatly folded account, snatched up his hat and rushed forth."

Suffered for Years

Miserable From Kidney Trouble. Doan's Made Mr. Barnett Strong and Well.

"I suffered untold agony with my kidneys for years," says John Barnett, 20 Virginia Place, Buffalo, N. Y. "Sometimes I felt that I would burn up with fever, but every day I would have a severe chill. Often my clothes were wringing wet with perspiration. The kidney secretions were unnatural in color and odor and burned terribly. At night my shoes were so tight on my feet that I could hardly get them off and my hands swelled so I couldn't hold a soap. At last I asked: 'How it is that two came and went all bent over like an aged man. When the terrible pains through my kidneys, my nerves would give way and many times I had to be lifted to my feet by people on the street.' I didn't care whether I lived or died. I was so miserable. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of all kidney trouble. Doan's made me strong and well."

LOOKED LIKE LABOR WASTED
Board's Visit Over, Small Boy Couldn't See Further Necessity for So Much Soap and Water.

He was a new little boy at the orphanage and was much impressed by all the scrubbing and cleaning he saw done there, more so because he had come from a home in which disorder and dirt had held sway. He could not understand it; more than that, it irritated him, and when he got the job of scrubbing the dining-room steps he was almost ready to leave.

But just then came a new engagement to the home. The board was coming to make its annual "bag of inspection, and its chairman was doubtless "got ready for the board," was the home watchword. It seemed, and he, being very human, decided to stay until that big event was over. The day of waiting came and passed. The next morning the new youngster sought the matron. "Now that them boards has been here, I soffen no use of scrubbing them steps so often—do you?" he asked.

Fads and Fancies Of Fashion

Concerning Wraps for Children.

On very little children designers sometimes like to put clothes that make them look like fascinating miniature versions of their mothers. There is a wonderful appeal in those little replicas of grown-up garments, something droll and something that brings out the sweet promise that makes little girls so lovable. As the little girls progress into the flapper stage this mimicry of grown-ups is abandoned because she requires things made especially for her in her "pin-feather" stage. It takes the little, downy chick to look lovely while she spies her mother and to make us wish to have the world an easy place for her to live in when she grows up.

For a girl of ten or thereabouts—the checked coat shown in the picture has been designed with thought only of her and her needs. It is in black and gray, and is a very childlike-looking and crisp garment, as buoyant as a hair bow. It hangs straight at the front, has sunny sleeves with wide cuffs, fastens with two large buttons and has a girth that is joined at the ends with a buckle. Having traveled this far in a quiet and dignified manner the designer grew playful in imitating the accessories. The pockets are queer and just make-believe and the collar plays pranks. It takes on a band of plain gray cloth at the back and becomes ruffled at the front by means of an unworked shibboleth, to which attention is called by two little buttons. It is a coat to please a little girl and every one who sees her.

The very little girl who has a demure and correct coat on with a full body gathered to a fitted yoke. The pointed collar finished with a tassel at the little girl's neck, but a nautic collar of silk has a very growing-up air. Designing clothes for children is not as simple as it looks, but there are people who are gifted with a special knack for doing it.

Dress Hats Approved by Fashion.

If the feminine mind ever needed convincing that pretty and strictly feminine clothes add a world of joy to life, it is thoroughly made up on that point now. During the war women got themselves into business clothes and uniforms, turned their backs on everything that hinted of frivolity and "tended to their knitting," dressed in the quietest and most matter-of-fact way. But the minute it came over they welcomed everything that is beautiful and cheerful in apparel and are spending more money for clothes than ever before, to the benefit of everybody.

Of course military reforms more quickly than anything else the mood of the public, for several reasons. A glance at the group of hats pictured here reveals picturesque shapes, boxes, bows, ribbons, ribbons, exquisite materials, all telling the story of midsummer as clearly as can be. At the top of the group there is a wide-brimmed black hat of hard with a portion of the brim cut away and filled in with malines. Flowers are set against the crown and ribbon encircles it; one gets a glimpse of them through the malines in the brim.

Just below at the left, a lovely big hat has its upper brim and crown veiled with georgette. Velvet ribbon, combining that pretty and strictly feminine in a most delicate is drawn over the crown and falls in long ends at the back and small garden flowers are clustered against this azure background. You can imagine how very they are. At the right another form is simply trimmed with very wide pink satin ribbon tied in a full bow with short ends, at the back. The last hat is a black shape with malin crown and her head brim and has a slash of narrow sapphire blue ribbon with clusters of small flowers set against it.

HOW SOME MEN GET RICH

Probably in Years to Come This Trader Will Boast of His Great Financial Ability.

"Some years ago," says an old trader, "I was standing by the ticker in a dull and reactionary market. An acquaintance came up and asked me what to buy. At the time I was absolutely leary and could see nothing good on the list. It was early afternoon and just then the time came on the tape '1 p. m.' So with a lurch, I turned away, remarking, 'I guess P. M.'s as good as anything!'"

"Some months later I was arrested in the street by the same man, who greeted me with the greatest cordiality. 'This was some tip you gave me,' he said. 'I plunged on it and cleaned up a whole lot of coin.'

"Tip?" I said. "When did I ever give you a tip?"

"Sure," he replied. "You said to buy Pacific Mail and I bought all I could carry."
