

4,000,000 WILL QUIT GERMANY

To Abandon Fatherland as Soon as Transportation Permits. FEW FOR THE UNITED STATES

South America and Russia Will Attract Most—Big German Steamship Companies Already Booking Passages for Prospective Emigrants—New Government Wants 100,000 Grants to Remain—Exodus Not Encouraged.

Four million Germans are preparing to abandon the fatherland and seek their fortunes abroad. This figure is officially furnished by General Jung, director of the recently organized government bureau of emigration. It will take ten years to transport the emigrants, according to Herr Jung. But emigrants continue coming from the war area regardless of the wholesale exodus. The big German steamship companies already have been booking passages for the prospective emigrants. The Hamburg America line, according to Carl Vockeler, director of the Berlin office, has a waiting list of 400 families destined for the United States and South America.

"Of course we cannot be moving the emigrants until the war ends," says Herr Jung. "But we have made arrangements for their transportation, which probably will start in ten to twelve months." He declared Herr Vockeler.

Few Coming to U. S.
The United States, in the opinion of General Jung, will receive but a small proportion of Germany's army of emigrants. The German government at least is not encouraging emigration to the United States. "In the United States," said Herr Jung, "our people lose their nationality and become American. The British and Americans proved this in the war." "We want our emigrants to remain German. This is possible only if emigrants are heavily concentrated in countries like Russia, Argentina, Brazil and India for their own colonies."

"We have a report here that the American congress has made a law compelling all immigrants to study the English language and American history. Such measures, if carried out, will certainly not appeal to Germans."

"This is probably will be the favorite point of emigration for Germans. That country offers them the resources that can be exploited by industrialists and thirty Germans."

"Furthermore, the political isolationism of Russia has led to the mind of the German war machine. He feels that Russia is the only country where capital does not prey upon labor."

"The British colonies, including Canada, are part out of question as they, in common with England, have passed exclusion acts against German immigration. Mexico is questionable. While Mexico is a highly desirable country for German emigrants, it probably will be so strongly anti-American control that our emigrants will be refused entry."

Don't Encourage Exodus.
This bureau also has no opinion on emigration at all. In fact, the new German government was at first directly opposed to emigration. It was the new constitution, specifically permits it we must see that the emigrant is properly directed and advised. That is the only purpose of this department."

"We also must protect our country against exploiters who would separate him from his money. Doubtful organizations which peddle false promises for the emigrants are harassing us."

"For instance, one particular company is floating propaganda in the land of wonderful opportunities and trying to persuade our emigrants to settle there, when, as a matter of fact, no German farmer or artisan could make a living in Patagonia."

"There are five or six good companies that honestly endeavor to find suitable localities for German emigrants in South America, but most of these so-called emigration societies are much like your American real estate concerns selling lots on the bottom of a lake."

Half World Has Bad Temper.
"Bad temper is not a ground for separation—if it were, half the people in the world would be separated," declared Madeline Langley, of Thames court, London, when she was applied for a writ of separation from her husband declaring he had "a bad temper."
