"Penitence, Pardon and Peace" is the title of a cantata to be given in the Methodist Episcopal church, May 11, by the Choral Society of Birmingham. Mrs. J. E. Welch, of North Woodward avenue, is the director of the club. She will present several private pupils, who will take solos of the solo parts. Quartetts, which have been organized within the society, will entertain with several selections during the evening. This is the first program of this nature to be given in Birmingham, and is planned for the society to give one at the close of the ensuing season. A number of Birmingham's best voices will be presented, and this is the first opportunity which the club has taken to let the people of Birmingham know of the splendid work being accomplished by the members, under the able instruction of Mrs. Welch.

FROM THE POSTOFFICE.

Local R. F. D. mail carriers have had much trouble the past winter and spring making their routes. It has been necessary to eliminate parts of all routes running out of the office at various times and the inability to cover all the ground has kept patrons and carriers in constant turmoil. First, one route and then another coming in for their share of argument. Carriers and patrons have not always agreed as to just how deep the mud or snow ought to be before the carrier was justified in discontinuing service temporarily, and correspondence has waxed large and voluminous in effects to settle such disagreements. Tuesday, some of the best citizens on Route 1, decided they would make a personal investigation of a particular part of the road most in dispute and to that end faced forth in a high powered automobile with a good driver at the wheel, bearing a parting statement with their friends who gathered to see them off to the effect that they would be back either once and for all, by showing how easy it was to make the trip and then they would be able to quote facts in substantiation of their claim that the carrier was "laying down" on the job. It is reported that they reached a certain part of the road most remote from human habitation and there stuck firmly to their argument until two kindly neighbors came and rescued the party. A few practical trials of this kind ought to convince patrons that there is really something to a carrier's job besides drawing salary, and it would be conducive to better service if everybody wade a little in mud to forcibly would wade a little in mud before condemning those who have to wade thru it a considerable part of the year.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS.

Hereafter the meetings of the Birmingham Garden club will be held every two weeks at the home of members on a Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Some time in mid-summer the meetings will be discontinued until they are resumed in October. It has been planned to have two 20 minute talks, one on a vegetable and one on a flower, the subjects to be decided at the previous meeting. Dues will remain as before, $1 per year, and new members will be invited to join thru out the year. The club has planned to devote all of their time to horticulture and leave the civic work to the Civic League. The program for the meeting held last Friday evening was the annual meeting and marked the close of the club's seventh years work. Reports, which are ready for publication, show the past year to be a very successful one. The garden club was organized by Mrs. S. H. Wightman as an outgrowth of her work on the forestry and town ship department of the Women's Literary club, and the first officers were chosen with those of the members of this club was able to give several successful social affairs, the returns from which were used in beautifying such spots among the streets and alleys in Birmingham. Mr. Wightman declined to accept the presidency for the coming year, and in the present election elected at the last meeting for Alice Duck, the club being left in the same enthusiastic manner as the one. The other officers have also Mrs. Wightman's name as their choice for re-election of her services and ability in handling such a club and would an organization which has been such a source of pride to the residents of Birmingham, and a credit to the women who have worked
