Modern Life Among The OLD, OLD Repwoods

Here's good reguing—a strring tale by an able author about rad-blooded recipie in an unique environment. Peles B, Kyne is as indigenous as the redwoods of which he writes with folying appreciation. Nevertheless, he has sailed the Pacific, been a solder in the Philippines, and has served as a captain in France with the ALE. F. And the sheer ment of his ilerary workmanship has given this clerk in a Carlorna country store deserved nation-wide popularity as a short-story writer and novelst.

The characters in "The Valley of the Gunts" are flesh and-blood people—Americans—the sort we know—our kindlighn Cardigan, pioneer lumberman ameng the reckhoods, a Strong man with a great heart, the soul of a diseaser and the unshaken faith of the trontiersman; he lives has retwoods even while he culs his way to feture trrangth them. Colored Pennington, the modern cartain of industry, with no more consecution an actual area, and brown and the reckhoods, and contempt for the law except as a recans of canoualizate. Bryce Cardigan, present-generation And, can of the right kind, who takes up the fight when his father falls in the tray and successfully battles animist odds to save his hart tige, even while his heart is divided between his hind sine and his dear-ect enamy. Shiles Sunney, near of Goldarf Fernington, a first-class American grid, with a mind of her own, a heart red blood and good sporter grants.

And the story is as time, an ats enuronment is unique. There is only one redwood coachy, and when the Carternia redweeds are gone the redwoods are given from the curts. John Cardigan and his like name led most of them low, and threaten trace in these internals. So it is that open for large red times forces quarts that we of the gown when Carrist was born—with these causins the sensor as they are the offest, and biggest lang things of early.
