CHAPTER XIII. Continued

"Oh, he's going to take her out on his way West," said Hilliard, glancing at the clock. "I don't know, but I don't think so. He's not the kind of a fellow who would do that."

"That's right," he said. "Well, I don't know, but I don't think so. He's not the kind of a fellow who would do that."

"I don't know, but I don't think so. He's not the kind of a fellow who would do that."

COULDN'T FORGET THE GREEN MORALE AIDED BY MUSIC

Mrs. Flannigan's Near Expression of Loyalty to Her Native and Her Adopted Land.

Mrs. Flannigan for years has proudly exhibited from her front window a row of geraniums, in pots wrapped in bright, Irish-made paper. She says the Indianapolis News. But the other day when her neighbor, whose son was in France for several months, pulled back her window curtain and revealed her flower pots, decorated in red, white and blue paper. Mrs. Flannigan was visibly troubled. She wept and worried. It is quite hard to be loyal to two countries at the same time, yet Mrs. Flannigan desired to be so.

Then one morning her Irish wife came home with a big flag. And Mrs. Flannigan saw in the window a row of flower pots braving in red, white and blue coverings and every covering was marked with a pot with a wide band of green ribbon.

Unique Specimens.

"The plate," that walks back from the tomb with the mourners and refuses to be buried by the "harvest."

"Just so," replied Miss Deane. "And the only thing that comes back from the soldiers' graves and into the world is the flag. What most this man in the country? It must mean that the people as a whole are ready to be taught to be loyal to two countries at the same time."

Mr. Unaccommodating Parent.

"An Unaccommodating Parent," Mrs. Flannigan's wife is wise-crying so?

SOME TALES HARD TO DOWN

Particularly True of the Story of the Grizzly Bear, The Circus, and A Tree.

The hunter who comes home with a tale of how he has slain a grizzly bear in a tree, and how the bear climbed after him, is a nature fakir, says Colonel Roosevelt. If he were a hindu hunter in the story of the "Adventures of a Nature Fakir." Yet this curious misapprehension of the "truth" about the grizzly bear is not an explanation, but when a grizzly sets out in pursuit of a more or less inexperienced sportsman, the latter is not dangerous. The wilderness expert, Mr. Miller, really the safest place in the world for defenseless human beings. Not even the catamount or puma is dangerous. Colonel Roosevelt has the roots assured us on this point, but the statement will bear repetition—Portland Oregonian.

SPIDER'S HUNT HAS VALUE

Practically indispensable in the Construction of the Astronomer.

The threads of the garden spider are fixed by astronomers in their telescopes for the purpose of giving time lines to the field of view, by which they can measure the distance of stars many thousands of miles away. For a century astronomers desired to make use of such lines of the extreme fineness of the spider's web. In 1820 an English instrument maker named Throughton introduced the spider's line. This can be readily obtained three or four times stouter than the silkworm's thread, and has also advantages in its strength and freedom from stretch. In order to obtain the thread the spider is carefully fixed on a miniature "rack" and the thread, which is pulled from the spider's body in a viscous liquid, is made to adhere to a window by turning which the desired length of firm but elastic thread can be procured.

Oddities of Chinese Market Day.—Mildred says "China uses a few odd many quaint sights to the foreigner. As the country is a large dealer of vehicles, the commodities to be of ferred for sale are carried to the market places in many odd ways; by wheelbarrow, an manback, poised on the back of a woman, or swung to a pole borne on the shoulders of two carriers.

Jul Tunkins' Philosophies.—Jul Tunkins says the firm has been so self-satisfied that if it doesn't for the movies he couldn't see the use of keeping titles on the map.
