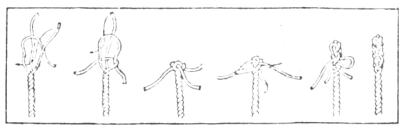
Steps in Making Completed Halter—A Eye Loop; Steps in Making Eye Loop A. B, Loop Splice; C, Crown Loop Splice B. Knot; D, Nose Piece.



Steps in Making Crown Knot, C.

A completed rope halter, and steps showing method of making. A marlin spike is used to separate the strands. The eye splice should be just large enough to allow the rope to pass freely through it. The loop splice should be far enough from the eye splice to form the nose piece. A more detailed description will be given upon application.

The equipment necessary to feed calves should be convenient and labor saving. An ordinary pail is not satisfactory for feeding calves.
