CONDENSED CLASSICS GULLIVER'S TRAVELS

By DANIEL SWIFT

Condensed by JEAN S. CANTRELL

The great town of N. Patrick, who ranks as one of the most successful of all men, was born in Bleary...

I WAS of a Nottingham family and, when about at Cambridge, likewise was I educated in medicine...

IN time I learned that I was in the kingdom of the Lilliputians. By then I was kept a long time in captivity...

One day the king, who was most friendly to me, came to me in great trouble. The emperor of the kingdom of Blefuscu had threatened to lay waste the kingdom of Lilliputia...

While this deed rebounded to my glory, it also raised me up powerful enemies. My great enemy was the king of Lilliputia...

Observations of Naturalist. There is a woman who asks walk on stone fences their peregrinations. A cat will often travel three or four miles in search of prey...

Over-Education a Peril? Have you ever read what Roman said of over-education? Well, here it is: "A great danger to nations is the accumulation of knowledge and power in untrained, while the uneducated, does not expand. There is reason to fear that the human brain may collapse under its own burden..."

Strong Fall Litters The fall crop of pigs does not depend on the weather or the political party in power. It depends on the health and condition of the sow.

Live Stock News BREAKING A HORSE TO RIDE

When a horse is to be used for riding it is well first to break him on a good single and double. This will make him quiet to ride.

Next in breaking the horse to being mounted, getting on and off a number of times. The assistant should have a lead rope and around the horse's neck and hand through the rings of a snaffle bit...

Of the Lilliputians, I used to say that they were people without a benefit in their preparation. Their digressing course beyond description; but later reflection induces me to think that the Lilliputians had somewhat a good reason for this.
