OUR CORRESPONDENT'S LETTER

Albany, Ore., June 10th, 1921.

The Birmingham Eccentricist is a fine publication and is the county seat of Linn County, Ia. It is on the Williams river, near the mouth of the river near Portland. The town is a clean, prosperous-looking place, but has not grown as rapidly as in the past twenty years. There is not much manufacturing here, and the stores have to depend on the farmers for what business they get, and under present conditions, this is not too large and business is far from good. There is plenty of lumber laid in the Cascade Mountains, near enough to make this place a large lumber shipping point, as the river is navigable during a large part of the year. There are not so many wood-working plants here to make use of this splendid supply of raw material. It is a larger chair factory, but it turns out only the cheapest grades of goods and the volume of business is not so large as it once was. Recently a large sawing and planing plant to use the surplus of lumber, and it is expected that this will be quite an addition to the prosperity of the place. There are many people here but they are mostly retired farmers, they don't "loosen up" as you say, and they don't know where it is hard for two families to make money off a farm. There are four hotels here, but they are all really up-to-date hotels, and several of them are "stuck in the price." Notwithstanding that fine strawberries are raised in the county, and the hotel charges 25 cents the portion for less than half a box, so you can see that the prices are not so good here as they are in other places. I have visited the place, and I have seen some of the things that you mention. All kinds of produce is cheaper here than at other places that I have visited. Eggs, for instance, are 20 cents, and butter is twenty cents. Nelson my brother, whom I have mentioned in the letter, has four banks here, but I told him he was mistaken, as I had found a fifth. The fifth one was changed to a bank, and I have a lot of it. Mr. Trip is in the automobile business, and he has a lot of cars. He has a lot of cars, and he has a lot of cars. He has a lot of cars, and he has a lot of cars.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

Harold Wald, reminiscing recently in a letter about Birmingham, said: "I hope to make Birmingham my home in the near future. I should enjoy a visit with all my old friends. ## FORMER BIRMINGHAM BOY RECENTLY WRITES BOOK

Birmingham has shown exceptional interest in the recent book of Harold Wald, "Stash of the Marsh Country," which has just been placed on the market. Mr. Wald was one of the most popular young men of the entire community during his time. His wonderful success has been attributed to his wide interest in human beings and the unlimited amount of time he has spent in their lives and their joys. Much attention has been given to the book by the publisher of the book, George H. Doran, says of the book, "Here is something unusual, the first success in the history of an American to give expression to the thoughts and ideas of a very vital section of the middle west."

The Detroit Free Press is quoted as saying, "Not often has Michigan been celebrated in fiction, but Harold Wald has chosen it for the locale for 'Stash of the Marsh Country.' A novel which challenges attention and lives that weave their tangled paths here, he has a rare comprehension; he has vigor and dash."

Further comment has been made by the Detroit Free Press, who writes, "It may well be that if your novel were published just as it is, you would be a novelist of all time."

The book has been on sale for several weeks, and Charles Shain is in charge of the Birmingham office. Mr. Wald's posts to visit here within the next year or two, he states in a letter to the Birmingham Post-Herald, published in the issue of July 11, 1921.

Mrs. Fred Ross of Willett street, will entertain the Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, at the home of Mrs. Ross, on July 15, at 3 o'clock. (An important notice is to be decided during the business meeting of the church, which will be held at the church dining room.)

ANNUAL SCHOOL BOARD MEETING PROVES LIVELY

R. J. Coryell Re-elected for Term of Three Years. Fractious Lynch of Ridgeville Ave., Elected to Fill Vacancy Made By Resignation of Mrs. Hartwell; Minutes of Each Meeting to be Published.

The annual meeting of School District No. 11, held at Baldwin high school Monday evening, July 11, proved, in the opinion of observers, the most stimulating with more attendance and interest than any previous election. Outstanding features of the meeting were the re-election of R. J. Coryell to succeed himself as trustee for a period of three years; the re-election of Leith Lynch of Ridgeville avenue, for trustee for one year to fill out the unexpired term of Mrs. Hartwell, who resigned; the re-appointment of school nurse for another year and the resolution adopted by the board of the printing of the minutes of each meeting of the board.

J. H. Clement, president of the board, called the meeting to order at 7:30 p. m. and 200 persons were in attendance. R. J. Coryell, secretary, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which gave a report of the expenditures and receipts for the past school year.

J. H. McBride, treasurer, made his report, which showed a total of $317,000.00 for the year ending June 30, 1921. The balance on hand was $218,000.00. The total amount of the year's expenditures amounted to $218,000.00. The balance on hand was $218,000.00. The total amount of the year's expenditures amounted to $218,000.00. ## HAZEL CLARK, CLERK

HAZEL CLARK, CLERK
BY JUDGE GILLESPIE

The temporary injunction issued by the court the first of the week at the request of Mrs. Elizabeth Pratt of West Michigan avenue, restraining the Oakland County Road Commissioners and R. D. Baker & Co. from continuing the construction of a pavement on Southfield avenue, at the intersection of Maple avenue, was dissolved Wednesday morning by Judge Gillespie.

Mrs. Pratt had complained that the line intended for the new maple tree and would make it necessary to remove so many of the roots of the tree there was danger to the property. Inasmuch as the tree stands on part of the street outside the walk of the court could see no objection for interfering with the street lines. There was no way to get the required street width at the intersection of Maple avenue without pushing back the curb line, which was held to be within the rights of the road commission.
