MISS FLORENCE ADAMS will be assisted by Mrs. Fern Buckbee Paul in a concert recital, June 21. Miss Adams is a pupil of Miss Marguerite Calkins.

Part 1 of "For Home and Country" by Katherine McCutcheon and Mrs. Wilce... Part 2 of "For Home and Country" by Katherine McCutcheon and Mrs. Wilce.

Part 1 consisted of "Blind Peas" and "Mermaid's Song" by Margaret and Frances Pullin; "Wounded Sparrows" and "Marching at School" by Margaret Kanungu; "Children's Festival Waltz" by Katherine McCutcheon; "Butterflies and Roses" and "Song Without Words" by Margaret Goss; "Lullaby Moon" by Katherine Mann; "Wandering Minstrels" by Frances Pullin; "Marie Lauring" and "America, Violet Pretzler."

Little Miss Marguerite Kamin entertained the younger pupils of piano forte of Pearl Porter Weikel at her home last Saturday afternoon, following the recital.

Men between the ages of 16 and 25 who are of sound character, intelligence and physical condition, will be eligible for enrollment in these camps which are intended primarily for men of little or no military training. Attendance entails no further military obligation, although it is highly probable that men will associate themselves later with the National Guard or the Reserve.

The government proposes these camps as great schools in citizenship and in national defense, for the individual and social benefits of all who attend. Military training will be directed to the initiation of young men into conditions of camp life and the elementary duties of the soldier.

This is merely the beginning. Pittsburg will always be a name significant in American history. The Military Training Camps association is an outgrowth of the Pittsburg camp which was initiated in 1917. It is a series of training camps with the thought that each succeeding summer will see additional thousands of young men eager to use this means of preparation for national service. The names of seven boys accepted this week for Camp Grant are William K. Lucasome, Manning Haven, Forbes S. Haxall, Claude H. Porter, Arthur Hartwell, Jr., Jack Gaff and Harry Brooks.

OUR CORRESPONDENT'S LETTER

not many passengers that are interested in this small pastime, so only ten numbers are sold each day. It is much colder in Honolulu than I find my overcoat quite comfortable at the moment. The smoking room is the warmest inside, but on the ship and the men-folks and some of the women-folks herd there much of the time.

Friday, a.m., April 15th - Our run for the past day was 292 miles, and the morning was filled with rain. We will arrive as planned. We have still 400 miles to go to reach port. It was raining quite hard this morning early, but later the sun came out bright and warm and the day has been altogether the best of the voyage. Unless we run into a fog, we will reach port early Sunday morning. We will have an early breakfast on the ship, and then separate to our several hotels, or trains, as the case may be. The inspection on arrival, is very rigid, as they are fearful of the introduction of pests from the islands. There are games in progress on the deck this morning, but as the space for this purpose is limited, are not as well enjoyed as they would be on a larger ship.

Saturday a.m., April 16th - We tried to get up an entertainment for the evening, but as the ship was so full and the talent refused to respond, we had to give it up. Perhaps it was just as well for the past two days, but could offer would probably sink any ship. We passed a Standard Oil tanker, and a tug, and a small boat, and were great excitement for a short time. The sun was shining brightly again this morning, and we came out on deck after breakfast, and it was warm and fine and very welcome. Our run for the past twenty-four hours was 287 miles, and we are now 172 miles from San Francisco, and could arrive at three o'clock Sunday morning, but the captain says that he will slow up a little, and get in at about six o'clock, so as not to have to anchor outside and wait for the inspectors. We saw many schools of porpoises, but as they are so numerous and so uninteresting, I will not mention them. This has been a pleasant voyage in many ways, and although the unpleasant to help us appreciate the pleasant all the more. So endeth this letter. Monday, June 21, 1917. I am miles on the Pacific Ocean. Not very interesting, I think, but the best I can do. With kindest regards to all my friends.

Aloha, BASEBALL RETURNS The Mt. Clemens high school team was met in a return game at that city last week when they encountered the local school team. In a slow, rather loosely played game, Birmingham was victorious, the score being 6-5.

Mt. Clemens took advantage of and profited greatly by a misplay of the Birmingham bats according to reports reaching here by witnesses. With good support, Baynes, pitching for Birmingham, should have scored a shutout, all of Mt. Clemens' runs being scored on errors.

Later in the week the home team invaded Camden and Windsor Collegiate Institute, was met and they downed the locals 8-7. Scoring one run each in the first and second innings, and three in the fourth, to one for W. C. L. Birmingham appeared to have a comfortable lead and one which would have been sufficient to have carried away the game. Inability of the catchers to handle the delivery of Baynes was the principal cause for Birmingham's first defeat. From this cause alone five runs were scored, all on passed balls. These misplays coupled with two infield errors of omission, let in enough runs to eventually give the Canadians the game. Birmingham tried hard in the last inning when they tied the bases and scored two runs, coming within one of tying the score. However, Peck was caught at third for the last out and the rally was cut short.

Miss Virginia Hupp of west Maple avenue, has come to Birmingham again for the summer from Monroe, Mich., where she has attended school all winter. She will be the guest of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gregory of Pierce street, announce the marriage of their oldest daughter, Ruth Margaret, to Willis V. Parshall, formerly of Cheasung, Mich. Rev. Bishop of Salt Lake City, performed the ceremony the 8th of June. Mr. and Mrs. Parshall will make their home in Salt Lake.
