DIAMOND HAS MANY VIRTUES

But According to Superstition the Gem Must Be a Gift to Person Who Wears It.

According to superstition (and to fact, also), the owner of a diamond is lucky, indeed. The diamond should be worn upon the left side, for it is of greater virtue there, for the strength of its growing is toward the North, that is the left side of the world, and the left part of a man when he turns his face toward the East. He who carries a diamond will have strength and manhood; it will keep him from harm, especially from broken limbs. It will give him victory over all his enemies if his cause is righteous. It will keep him from strife and rife, and is a talisman against enchantments. In fact, if an enchanter tries to work a spell upon the possessor of a diamond he will find it will work upon himself instead. No evil being will attack the diamond owner. If he has an innumerable of mortal troubles, if he has been brought near to the diamond will become manifest. In order to be of the greatest virtue, the diamond must be given freely instead of being bought.

Who Got the Penny?

It was this Dorothy's first time to attend Sunday school. In leaving the house her father gave her a penny and said: "Now, Dorothy, you must give your penny to Jesus." When the Sunday school teacher passed the collection envelope she returned the example of the other children and deposited her penny. On her return her father asked: "Dorothy, did you give your penny to Jesus?" "No, sir," she replied. "My penny was not there, so I gave it to Mrs. Jones."—Kansas City Star.

Why should you follow a crooked path?

Often a crooked path has been allowed to become a village street, and as the village expanded, tradition has made the winding way an expression of a cow's will. Habit is always forging chains to enslave us, so that what has been found bearable by the fathers is accepted by the sons. Who cannot recall the coffee-pot Mother put on the stove early in the morning, warming us not to let it boil over? As children, we were not permitted to drink tea or coffee, because the rich, satisfying flavor of Postum—also the better health which resulted. And, too, we were surprised to find how many of our neighbors had made the same discovery—had learned the value of "health first."

Finally upon the instructions of the doctor, Mother gave up her tea and coffee. But that meant nothing in our young lives, for vitality was then strong enough to throw off any ill effects. But our time came, and we learned by experience that we could not drink tea or coffee. When we had it for breakfast it put our nerves on edge. When we drank it at the evening meal, we tossed about in wakefulness most of the night.

And then we found Postum, a pure cereal beverage, free from the harmful drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee. We tried the rich, satisfying flavor of Postum—and also the better health which resulted. And, too, we were surprised to find how many of our neighbors had made the same discovery—had learned the value of "health first."

MOTHER, QUICK! GIVE CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP FOR CHILD'S BOWELS

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of colic, has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, soothes his bowels and wakes the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children on every page printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

The Right Instant. "Come, Dorothy," said her father impatiently, "throw your doll on the bed and hurry or we shall be late." "Daddy, how can you?" reproved the child. "Isn't that kind of a maver,"—Boston Transcript.

Scotswoman Might Reasonably Be Excused for Not Knowing How to Cook the Confeetti.

A traveling fair had visited the little country town, and a fete had been arranged, at the close of which every thing pointed to a very gay day to be enjoyed by all.

Farmers from far and near were expected to come into town, and much trade was expected to be done by the local tradesmen.

One of the leading shopmen went to the nearest city to buy a supply of confetti to sell during the fete. His wife stayed at home to attend to the shop in his absence.

The first thing that he bought was a quantity of confetti. He sent that home by carrier overnight, and wired to his wife as follows: "I am sending 100 pounds of confetti. Watch for it."

Next day he received this wire from his wife: "Confetti is here. How do you cook it?"—Chicago Scotsman.

Success and Failure. "I met Harry to-day in a village, but a dinner party in London. What a big figure he got to be since!" "What's Harry?" "A thoroughly, toppling with the rest of my own glass, suppose, Sir James, that some of your plays do better than others? They are all successful, aren't they?" "Harry leaned his big head on his little thin neck toward me. His saucy little eyes twinkled. "No," he said, "some peter out and some 'pan out.'"

Fictions of Finance. "Nabobs' notion is to buy a farmer old bricks or green goods my mother." "What's the use?" inquired Farmer Goodwood. "They can work faster and safer with oil stock literature?"

ROLLING BUILDING TREES PLANTED IN STREETS

In Congested Centers They Have Been Sacrificed to Alleged Interests of Business.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the characters in an early-day American romance of the time when the "stamper" was causing all kinds of trouble is recorded as declaring that New York never would be a real business city because Broadway and Maiden Lane were lined with trees. The Van Vroom's, the Stuyvesant's, the Arverly's and other early settlers of the country saved trees about their homes, on the village greens along the country roads, and in the fields. But one will see these nowadays on Broadway, and Maiden Lane has been transformed from the pleasant, tree-bordered region of Dutch homes with flower gardens into the busiest wholesale jewelry district in America, if not in the world.

Beauty and comfort gave way to the needs of commerce, not only in New York but in most of America's great cities, so that today trees in a business street are a rare sight. There are city-planted trees in New England, maple-shaded towns in New York and the Ohio valley, and there are extensive groves to be seen in the southern states, but for the most part this refers only to small towns or cities—never to the congested centers of population where they should have been preserved. Washington, the national capital, is one of the exceptions, and even there the plantings were not always wisely arranged.

The tree growth in the streets of the average American town or city is meager and unkept in appearance, while that of the suburbs or small villages is of a more pleasing character. The planting has been done under municipal control, and the plantings on a street have been confined to a single kind of tree, which were planted at the time of their coming.

Faulty methods of pruning have caused disfigurement and ruin. "Success follows the careful planting of good trees which are given adequate protection and timely attention," says Farmer's Bulletin 1269, Planting and Care of Street Trees. Just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. "Every tree should be trained to its proper form while young, so that severe pruning will not be necessary later. Guards are necessary for the protection of young trees."

"To the mutilation of severe pruning has been added the destruction of many trees in centers of business because they excluded a little light, or made the store less prominent, or were somewhat in the way of using the sidewalk for merchandise."

The bulletin insists that providing shade on city streets is as much a municipal function as providing lights or sidewalks and should, therefore, be cared for by public officials. Probably the most efficient way of arranging for proper supervision of streets through an unpaid commission of three or five members which in turn employs an executive officer. Methods of organization are described, and numerous illustrations show how trees should be planted. There are chapters also describing pruning, spraying, transplanting and other subjects of importance to every town or city whether it has trees or wishes to have them. The bulletin may be had free upon application to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FOR REVENUE ONLY "With all your debts you have the assurance to ask for the hand of my daughter? What are you thinking of?" "My debts."

No Private Stock. To save my own I shall not try, I cannot bear enough to try. A coal mine of my own.

Best by Test. Customer (in perfumery shop)—Is this a good brand of perfume? Sales girl (treated in a book store)—That, madam, is one of our best smelling.

Needlework. "Is your daughter expert in needlework?" "Yes," replied the merry mother. "I've known her to do nothing for hours except change the needles on the phonograph."

The Home Touch. Sunday School Teacher—What did Hebraizer learn from the writing on the wall? Bright Little Girl—Please, miss, that his walls hadn't been dated for a long time.

The Instructive Impulse. "Is Bilegicus a practical reformer?" "No," said Miss Cyclopedia; "she's the kind of a reformer who would invent a food distributor in a fanfare area to deliver lectures warning people not to eat with their knives."

Tested. Friend Wife—Don't misunderstand me, my dear; I weigh my words before I speak. Friend Hubby (scolded his wife)—Well, nobody can accuse you of giving short weight.

Drift With Humor

DIFFERENT ALTOGETHER.

Shortlight: "I tell you, old chap, marriage changes a man completely. Why, I'm a different man altogether since I married."

Longlight: "I'm glad to hear that. Perhaps you will settle that little I. O. U. I've held against you for a year or two."

Shortlight: "Oh dear, no. I couldn't think of settling another fellow's bills."

Different Kind of Criticism. "Arthur," said a young artist to a friend, "do you see that lady and gentleman who are looking at my picture and talking in such low, earnest tones?"

"Yes," replied the friend. "I wish you would scunner by curiously and find out what they are saying. It looks like business."

"She is calling him down for staying out late last night," said the friend, returning.

PROBABLY DID. "In prehistoric times a man won a wife by dragging her away by her hair."

"The ladies must have fastened their hair on more securely than they do now."

Influence. "Do your constituents approve of a lobbyist?" "Not by that title," replied Senator Sorghum. "When they spot a man with talents for pull and persuasion they're mighty likely to elect him to some position where he can look after their business interests with some show of authority."

A Good Indicator. "Look, Hummel," said her mistress, "are't these beautiful?" "They ain't, they are, my dear," replied the cook. "They look just like the dolls on my mistress's bow hat. Ain't it wonderful how naturally the Lord can make things?"

Milder Methods. "Your conviction is not based on some rough work at the police?" "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "Sometimes I think it might be better to get into the old days when a boss could find a man instead of taking a club to him."

Easy. "Senator, kindly says we must save the country." "Has he any ideas about the best way to do that?"

"I would like to make a speech on the subject that will hold an audience spellbound for an hour."

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa. — "I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nine-teen days it all they have lived. Before my next one was born I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody you please."—Mrs. C. W. Benz, 121 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest in children's lives. "Millions, I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I could not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. Janssen, Milton, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says: "I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and I read it. I was so interested in your Vegetable Compound, I overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. H. Held, 329 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by headache, irritable humors, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the common ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious diseases or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is perpetually looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Allments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Mutual. Revenue Officer—I don't know what to make of it. Home Brewer—I didn't either.
