When you find your gas bill running too high, before looking for some dark, deep-hidden reason, consider such simple suggestions as these: Is it the fault of the weather? Have you had sickness in the home? Have you had more company than usual? Has a servant or young members of the family been careless and used too much gas? Have any additional gas appliances been put in during the month or period? Can you find any reason in your home for your excessive gas bills? If you find none, then come to us.
