

MAKE PREPARATION FOR CANNING BEFORE FRUITS BEGIN TO RIPEN

Be Sure Your Rubber Rings Are Good.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. Many a family that is fond of strawberry preserves or raspberry short-cake during the winter months...

Season is Short. The season of any of the small fruits is very short, and full preparation for the canning should be made before even the first of the fruits begins to ripen.

BUY BAKING POWDER IN SMALL QUANTITY

Estimate Time One-Pound Can Will Last in Cooking.

Many Pantry Supplies May Be Replenished Before Stock Is Exhausted—Making Estimates With Other Foods.

Baking powder often runs short at a crucial moment when one has a cake half-baked, thinking there is plenty of it on hand.

A pound-can of baking powder can be bought at regular intervals, so many tea-spoonsful it contains and how many tea-spoonsful are needed for the cooking during any given period.

In a home where hot biscuits are made every morning, possibly four tea-spoonsful of baking powder would be the average amount daily to leaven a flat of flour.

Similar estimates with other foods can be made by the individual housewife. The rule that three tea-spoonsful make one tablespoonful is sufficiently accurate for practical purposes.

Chocolate Almonds. Blanch Jordan almonds, dry them between towels, then strew over a baking sheet and place in a medium hot oven until delicately browned.

Cleaning Hint. Use one-half cupful of kerosene oil in a pailful of water to wash your window sashes and sills.

Creamed Dried Lima Beans. Soak the beans for several hours before cooking. Add a very little water to the amount first used, so that the liquid will cook down to a small amount.

Sweet Oil and Brass. Brass bedsteads may be cleaned by rubbing them with a cloth slightly moistened with sweet oil and then polished with a soft dry duster.

ARENA BATTLES FOR LEGION

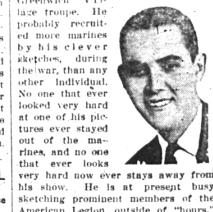

Famous Castilian Matador, Ex-Ocean Fighter, Stages Bloodless Conflicts With Angry Bulls.

To show that bull-fighting is really as simple, and as bloodless, and as refreshing as a quiet game of golf, Senior Carlos Molino, famous Castilian matador, has been staging arena battles all over the country for the benefit of the American Legion.

SKETCHES WON THE RECRUITS

Alvan Bradley, Crayon Artist, Now "Drawing" Some of the Prominent Legion Men.

Alvan C. ("Hay") Hadley, crayon expert and ex-marine, travels with a Greenfield Village troupe.

When "Hay" enlisted in the marine corps at Paris Island, a red-necked sergeant asked him what his occupation was.

So the sergeant put him to work wash-washing garbage cans. The growing disappointment of Hay's life was never ran across that sergeant again.

JOBS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Civic Organizations Co-Operating With American Legion to Aid Work for Ex-Soldiers.

Their organizations are co-operating with the American Legion in every city, town and hamlet throughout the country to put across the nationwide drive for employment for the 700,000 ex-soldiers now out of a job.

Carrying On With the American Legion

With mingled feelings, Legion men read that the ex-soldier grasping Paris taxi-cabs—the vehicles that took Gallien's army off to fight on the Marne, are to be replaced.

A United States marine sold the United States superdreadnaught New Mexico to a retired farmer at Long Beach, Cal., for $100 cash.

An Oklahoma sheriff allowed three "killings" to take place without much opposition. Ewing C. London, commander of the Ardmore post of the American Legion, was appointed his successor.

Varying conditions existing in the different parts of the country will largely determine what proportion of service men will desire cash payment, the Legion was learned from its referendum votes.

Blind beggars sometimes have good eyesight. The American Legion has found one "ex-soldier" with medals bought from a hock shop was caught taking $90 an hour from New York's theater crowds.

Ex-service men have been taken on to replace non-drafting employees by a Portland, Ore., power company.

Many ex-service men who went back to "do hard work" are now straggling in the large cities. The Legion is helping them book passage "back home again."

Widows, mothers and orphans of men who died in the service during the war should apply without paring. Post and press through a potato ricer or any wire strainer and not a particle of potato will be wasted.
