BASEBALL TEAM

Prospects for a good baseball team seem very bright as the season progresses. A large squad of both veterans and recruits turn out each night for practice and although Barnum field has been so wet that work there has been almost impossible, the players are in fair condition.

A good infield is looked for with Moore at first, Berger at second, Capt. Howe at short and Shave at third. "Boots" Smith will "sub" in the infield when he is not pitching.

The outfield material is composed of Bray, Lotter, Bierer, Davis, Mallender, Tuggey, Brown and Patenaude, all looking about on a par as far as fielding is concerned, whether or not they play regularly will depend on their ability with the stick. Groves will do the brunt of the backstopping with Smith, Ross and Bierer alternating in the box. Shute have been issued so that one team might be properly clad, but whether or not a fellow has a suit has no bearing on who will make the team.

Two games are scheduled for next week, Royal Oak there on Tuesday and Pontiac here on Saturday.

Birmingham will go to Pontiac tomorrow to compete in a track meet. The following men will be taken: Delong, Buck, Smith, Ross, Reid, Haven, McBride, Patenaude, Davis, Mansfield and Berger.

THIRD AGRICULTURAL EXPEDITION

A class in Animal Husbandry having just completed their study of poultry, natured to Big Beaver Tuesday morning to visit Dean's Chicken Farm. They were shown through the chicken coop which housed about 1,000 chickens and through the house where the incubation process was carried on. The giant Buckeye incubator held 14,000 eggs and it was interesting to note the method by which the eggs were arranged, turned, heated and hatched. A smaller incubator holding about 2500 eggs was somewhat different. Things of importance were the self-feeders and arrangement of the coops and parks.

The students finished the regular course but are finishing the term with extra work.

W. H. Morris, for many years a well known resident of Birmingham, now a resident of Detroit, was in Birmingham Wednesday on business. He visited many of his old friends here and declared the town to be even more beautiful and desirable than when he had lived in it. He considers Birmingham to be one of the most ideal home spots around the city of Detroit, and, owning property in several places feels that he is qualified to express an opinion.

Miss Ethel Bassett of Martin street, who has been spending two months in the west, returned to Birmingham Tuesday evening of this week and resumed her position in Shain's pharmacy. Miss Bassett has made a great many friends in a business and social way who are glad to know of her return.

OSTEOPATHY DIFFERENT

most Chiropractors use, is the spinal thrust, with the patient lying prone on a divided table, and nothing to support the body in the middle. Chiropractors of the Palmer school, or "Rountain Head" have limited their treatment merely to the vertebrae of the spine, not even acknowledging that ribs or pelvic bones can be displaced. Usually only one thrust is given by Chiropractors, never more than three, and after two or three minutes of adjusting the patient lies down a half hour. Palmer, the developer of Chiropractic, recently treated 373 patients per hour during a Chiropractic convention.

As one Chiropractic magazine fairly and aptly puts it—one difference between Osteopathy and Chiropractic is that Chiropractors limit themselves to the adjustment of the spinal vertebrae, while Osteopaths adjust not only the spine, but other parts of the body anatomy that might need adjustment.

The Chiropractic idea or conception of the cause of disease differs somewhat from that of Osteopaths. No Osteopath believes that all diseases are caused solely by maladjustments which, when corrected, bring about health. This seems to be the sole belief of Chiropractors. Osteopaths believe, of course, that lesions or structural displacements are a factor in the cause of most diseases, but they believe that other things enter as a causative factor in some diseases.

I never saw a Chiropractor who was an all-around physician, able to take care of all diseases, practice obstetrics, meet all emergencies, etc. As a rule they are limited to the mere act of adjusting, and if there is nothing to adjust, why adjust anyway. Osteopaths of course, have a sufficient training to be all-round practicing physicians, taking care of confinement cases, using anti-septics, performing minor surgery, and a great many doing major surgery, using antidotes, anaesthetics, etc.

Osteopaths, having a thorough knowledge of pathology, know their limitations—what can be cured, and what cannot—while Chiropractors do not recognize pathological conditions, and do not know their limitations. Consequently, the Chiropractor will promise a cure in practically every case, regardless of whether the condition is hopeless or not, and they are not taught to know a surgical case when they see one.

While Osteopaths are taught to recognize different diseases by symptoms, both objective and subjective, and to name the disease the same as medical doctors, Chiropractors usually do not diagnose disease, nor name it—they simply locate their conception of the cause, in the spine, and adjust it.

Now, although disease is not an entity, or thing in itself, and no name ever exactly fits a disease, as the cause of disease is multiple, yet, it is a good idea to recognize the disease the patient has by name, as well as to recognize the causes that brought it on. For instance not to recognize a contagious disease would

SENIOR PLAY

The advertising and publicity committees were recently elected for the Senior play to be produced a week from tonight, and are very busy advertising and arranging the programs. Elmer Lowe is chairman of the publicity committee and Katherine Trumbull has charge of the posters. Dan Bierer is the business manager.

BASKETBALL DANCE

Tonight in the auditorium the third school dance of the season will be held. Elaborate plans have been made to make this event stand out in the minds of the students as one of the most successful affairs of the year.

The two dances last semester were both a success from every viewpoint and this one is expected to be still more pleasing, because the girls have conquered every opposing team and have brought the highest honors to the B. H. S. A large attendance from the student body is anticipated.

BALDWIN BRIEFS

Due to those ten week exams no chapel exercises were held last week.

Everyone has gone "Radio crazy." Every Tuesday night enthusiastic audiences in the school building and in some of the business places, hear a concert from WWJ.

The Annual goes to press in about ten days.

A Junior class meeting was held Tuesday night. Another party, I suppose.

The Juniors who took part in the Junior play went to Detroit last week where they viewed "A Pair of Sixes" presented by the Woodward Players. From all hearsay our home talent was as good and some characters better than the professionals.
