WOMAN'S LITERARY CLUB

Miss Susan Trowbridge was hostess to the members of the Woman's Literary club of Birmingham, Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 17. The program dealt with French art and a graphic description of the scope of the famous Fontainebleau-Barbizon School was given in an interesting manner. Mrs. Clarence Vliet and Miss Carrie E. Bassett gave two splendid papers discussing French artists, emphasizing Carot, Rousseau, Millet and Jacques. Mrs. Blanche Ferry and Mrs. Gula Gamber were elected to membership.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Gula Schlaack, 524 Bates street, Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 24. The program will consist of articles on the modern press of America. Edward Bok and his influence on America, also prominent present day journalists will be discussed and the afternoon is sure to be a pleasant and profitable one.

TO INSTALL WATER METER

At last there will be an accurate and easy method used by the Village to ascertain the number of gallons of water pumped through the mains in Birmingham over any given period of time, for the Village officials have ordered a meter to be installed at the pumping station. Heretofore when any calculations were made relating to the amount of water pumped, computations made by multiplying the area of the water plungers in the pump by the number of piston set per minute that the plungers traveled.

BUILD for STRENGTH

"Build for Strength" has been the advice handed down from father to son in one family from generation to generation.

It is an excellent motto for every one. Build strongly, if you build at all.

A thrift account aids in putting your house on a firm financial foundation.

This bank is a financial home for many who are building strong.

CUSTOMERS

OF Consumers Power Co. Are Becoming Its Owners

Consumers Power Company has 9,400 customers in the cities of Pontiac, Birmingham and Royal Oak and within the past year many of these customers have become part owners of this business by investing in the 7% preferred stock of this company.

Every day this list of customer owners grows and we hope it will keep on growing. We should like to see every one of our customers a partner in the business with us. It is a tribute to the stability of any business for those it serves to invest their money in it. It shows that the business enjoys the confidence of the people. Public confidence is the biggest asset any company or business can have.

Our employes, as well as so many of our customers, are shareholders and partners with us in this great enterprise. Customer-ownership of public utilities is the one practical form of public ownership. Under this system you have a public service properly operated by men and women trained for the business—just as any other property is operated—regulated by the people through their official representatives and owned by the people who use it and the people who operate it. That is the logical position of customer-ownership. It leads to the best and fairest solution of public utility problems in the interest of the public, as well as the utility.

Customer-ownership has succeeded wherever it has been fairly tried. It could not, of course, succeed unless the people believed in it and supported it. The people believe in it and support it simply because, as right here in Birmingham in the case of the 7% preferred stock of this company, they find that, first, it gives them a safe investment, with a fair, regular, cash return upon their money. They know that back of their investment lies a business that is indispensable to every man, woman, and child and industry in this city. Indispensable service is the biggest underlying factor in the stability of any security.
