Dizzy Spells

Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Rev. B. M. Bridges Gives Facts in His Case

It is doubtful if there has ever been a medicine endorsed by so many ministers of the Gospel as has Tanlac. Indeed, there is scarcely a faith, creed or denomination in all the land in which one, or more, of the clergymen has not publicly expressed their indebtedness to the Premier Preparation for the benefits they have derived from its use.

One of the latest to speak out in this connection is Rev. B. M. Bridges, a widely known and beloved Baptist preacher, residing at Mooresboro, N. C., whose statement follows:

"Tanlac has given me a good appetite, toned up my system and renewed my strength in such a gratifying way that I am glad to recommend it to anyone who is in a run-down condition. For ten years past I have had such a severe case of indigestion that I could not find anything to eat that agreed with me. Finally I became very nervous and could get but very little sleep or rest.

"It seems that I took nearly everything trying to get myself right, but nothing helped me until I ran across Tanlac. My nerves are so much better now that my sleep is sound and refreshing. I enjoy my meals and have also gained weight. I can say from experience that Tanlac is a splendid medicine and tonic, for it has built me up wonderfully."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Plan Wouldn't Work.

A celebrated wine merchant received a letter which ran: "Sir, I have not a centime to my name, but I adore champagne. Be good enough to send me a case of your delicious nectar. With its help I hope to forget my wretched poverty."

He replied by return mail: "Sir, the means wherewith you propose to forget your poverty will not avail. The incessant and persistent presentation of my account would remind you every moment of your sad condition."—Boston Transcript.

American Miners Outdig Russians.

American coal miners, thrown out of work by the five months' strike in the United States, have been drifting into the pits of the Donetz basin in Russia.

The Bolshevik government at Moscow announced the other day that 32 Americans in the Yusowiki mine had established a record by digging in one day two and one-half times as much coal as did the same number of Russian miners. It is understood that more American miners are on their way to Russia.

CHILDREN'S TRIMMED HATS; FAVOR MANNISH SWEATERS

HATS for children—"much could be said on this subject"—much more than was required a few seasons ago. A sizeable group in those days might have contained all the styles in trimmed hats considered necessary for the equipment of little girls, but times have changed, and now pages could be filled with the variety of designs displayed for the benefit of little ones. Designers appear to be experimenting along a new path—they are taking styles for grown-ups and giving them delightful and amusing translations—making them talk baby talk.

Pokes and cloches appear to be the shapes best suited to little girls. It is more difficult to adapt off-the-face hats to them, but it is done successfully. In materials duvetine appears to be the favorite, but velvets and silks are well represented. Among the simpler hats, felt, velours, duvetine and plush make up the bulk of the displays, and the hats "to match," made of the same fabrics as coats, are a noteworthy feature of this season's styles.

The hats pictured may be developed in any of the fabrics mentioned. Nearly all of them have soft crowns, and their story is quite completely told by the photographs. An amusing turban at the top makes use of satin and a wide silk braid. The upturned brim shows flat sections of braid alternated with shirred puffs of satin, and a prankish bow of folded satin is posed at the left front. Duvetine gives a good account of itself in the pretty hat just below at the right. It is laid in folds about the upturned brim, where a gay embroidered ornament is placed. Facing it, a pretty hat of shirred and puffed silk uses the same silk for collar and sash ends. Faille makes the hat at the right, with ruffles and puff about the upturned brim. Two colors in velvet are combined in the hat at the bottom, with sash and double bow for trimming.

Fathers and brothers are setting the fashion for us in knitted coats. Of course we are not willing to admit the "superiority of man," but we will have to concede that they do know how to choose sweaters.

In fact, in our eagerness for the genuine article, we are going so far as to patronize men's clothing houses. According to their report, their sales of sport sweaters to girls and women have been almost as large as to their male customers. However, it is not necessary to do this, for these substantial sweaters so purposefully designed for wear in the great outdoors, are faithfully reproduced and conspicuously featured throughout women's knitted apparel sections.

It seems that while in these athletic sweaters appeals most to the high school and university girls who expect to revel in outdoor sports during the coming months. However, a large and interesting color range in these knitted garments includes excellent fall shades.

Since heavy knit sweaters are of such truly smart style, be sure that every detail of mannish perfection be uncompromisingly reproduced in the garment you buy. In the first place, the slipstitch mode, your knitted coat or slip-on must be manufactured of the very highest grade, 100-per-cent worsted yarn. Thus is real comfort and enduring wear guaranteed. Next, be assured by your salesperson that the shoulders are the kind that do not stretch and that the elbows are reenforced.

Another item: This type of sweater being originally a man's model, some designers keep the buttons on the right side in true masculine style. There must be a perfect fitting collar which, at will, buttons up snug and warm.

The garments also portrayed are eminently correct in every detail. Each is hand finished with scrupulous care and they represent the highest type of man-fashioned knitted garments. The one is a sport coat full fashioned with fancy rack stitch front border, the other is a girl's slip-on.

Beauty and Health.

The first gray or faded hair, or the appearance of too many filaments on your comb as you dress your hair, should serve as a warning to change your habits of living, diet and periods of rest that nature may have a chance to repair wasted tissues, build up circulation and strengthen the nerves.

All Lengths in Beads.

Bead chains, long, short, medium, are a craze with those who feel that these necklaces are the final needed touch to a costume. The new examples in beads for neckwear are inspiring, and it is no wonder that some women are inclined to overdo the wearing of them.

Fall Fashion Note.

A great deal of metal embroidery and a liking for a full skirt and deep bertha are shown in the fall fashions.

Kasha Cloths.

Pastel colors are a feature of the newest kasha cloths.

MORE COAL, FEWER MINES

A couple of weeks ago, at the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, I saw a Plymouth Rock hen with 276 eggs to her credit as the measure of a year's work, writes George Otis Smith, director, geological survey, in the Nation's Business. As I am not a hen enthusiast, my mind wandered from poultry records to a subject nearer my heart; I found myself comparing this hen's year with the coal mine worker's year. Last year the average soft coal mine of the country was open for work only 170 days and the average year in the soft-coal industry over a long term of years contains only 215 working days—to that extent is the output of the coal miner limited by causes beyond his control. Yet there is the same kind of public concern in the length of the coal-mining year as in the length of the egg-laying year. Coal miners work by the year just as do hens; walk by the year, and the cost of coal is related to the number of days on which the mine operates in the year just as the cost of eggs is related to the number of days on which the hen lays. In this respect the coal business and the egg business conform to the same economic law, but are we making as much progress with coal as with eggs?

Much less than two centuries ago smallpox was more prevalent than is measles today. In Europe those who escaped it were a minority. George Washington caught it when seventeen years old, in Barbados, and bore the marks of it through life. Of all the great epidemic diseases, smallpox was the most terrible enemy of mankind. Conquest of it may be regarded as one of the most remarkable of human achievements. Vaccination, supplemented by the practice of isolating sufferers, has wiped it out so thoroughly in this country that since 1904 (according to a newly published statement of the public health service) deaths from smallpox have been less than one in 100,000 of our population per annum.

"In America we are all in the hunt—men and women. Our everlasting quest of excitement is wearing us out," says Irving Bacheller, the well-known writer. "We may find knowledge and excitement and even pleasure abroad, but not that abiding presence we call happiness, which, unless she be dead, is always calling us back home. Every one who goes about looking for happiness will look in vain. If he is capable of seeing her, he will find her waiting on his doorstep when he gets home. What is happiness? Is it not in love of one's task and of his associations? I am convinced that it is born of those two loves, or not at all.

"The greatest happiness lies in having found one's work and in being strong to do it. Good health is, therefore, a part of the thing we call happiness. The friends who respect and understand us and a loved task and a comfortable home fill the cup."

A wife whose husband is under arrest on the charge of passing a bad check told him: "I hope I never see your face again," which probably is not far removed from what the fellow who cashed it said to the check.

It is announced that the new Zeppelin for the United States will be the last word in air craft. That is the trouble with the dirigibles that we have been buying abroad. They were last words, not to say dying gasps.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts was discussing office seekers. "They are the bane of a legislator's existence," he cried, adding, "and most of them seem to think that government positions are nothing but graft. It never seems to occur to them that it takes able workers to carry on the machinery of the greatest government in the world.

Had One Qualification.

A friend of mine, with a son whose name is Norman, lives in a neighborhood where there are but few children, so Norman's only playmate is another boy of the same age who cannot speak English.

The mother wondered at the attachment of these two, and one day said: "Norman, what is there about Charlie that makes you want to play with him? You do not understand him, nor he you."

Norman answered, "But, mother, he laughs in English."—Chicago Tribune.

Truly an Optimist.

He was an optimist, and had just moved into new lodgings with his wife.

On the north of them dwelt a gas company. Chemicals were made in the east. A glue factory perfumed the south. The west wafted weird soap-boiling effluvia. But, bless you, he was an optimist!

"Of course, dear," he murmured, holding his nose, "it is a little trying sometimes. Still there's an advantage in the arrangement. At least, we don't need to buy a weathercock to tell the way the wind is blowing."—London Tit-Bits.
