Backed Up and Sat Down

When I was a freshman in high school I had a crush on one of my teachers and was anxious to always appear at his best before her.

One evening after school I returned to the room to talk to her.

CHAPTER XVIII—Continued. "Make yourself easy," he said sullenly. "I hadn't any hand in it, I don't know what happened, but I guess she didn't go to the camp anyway."

CHAPTER XIX The Closing of the Trap. Payne was struggling with his perplexities about a month before the date set for the trial when Jim Betts and Kitty came to his office.

CHAPTER XX The Guilty Man! The impact of the bodies of Hackett and Lee's chambers had established the fact ascertained by a search-party on the day after the fire, that there were no human remains of any kind except the charred timbers of the camp.

CHAPTER XXI A Dramatic Moment. The second day of Wilton's trial was agonizing to the hand-picking experts—gentlemen brought to Clayton at fat fees, who unanimously testified that the signature of the transfer was genuine.

CHAPTER XXII The Factor's Story. "That was all the the Betts got," he said. "He carried him, he carried him northward and eastward, going into every Indian settlement and talking to the people."

Wrigley's Better Digestion Few of us chew our food enough. Hasty meals are harmful, but Wrigley's stimulates the flow of saliva that helps the stomach take care of its load.

Eat less, chew it more and use Wrigley's after every meal. It keeps teeth white, breath sweet and combats acid mouth.

LESSON UNCLE JED HAD LEARNED

Harsh but Effective, and One Which His Nephew Had Taken Seriously to Heart.

It looked the other day as if my neighbor had been hit right on the necks or a lawsuit. He is a hard-headed, stiff-necked, perverse sort of a man, my neighbor is.

"The man who cannot handle his own temper," said my neighbor, "is apt to have a lot of unexpected trouble."

afraid to look a man in the eye and when his fork had told some stories once that this fellow was really afraid to laugh. Yes, sir, just as there silent, looking down at the floor. And it came to pass that his table leg had some slight trembling with this despicable little neighbor and got on his horse and rode over to have it out. He could see his little Jed get by his neighbor with big ears and spurs and a likely cut-throat horse and a quiet in one hand.
