Our Own Weekly Wanderings

By G. R. A. R. G.

Last week we had occasion to go to Saginaw and Bay City. The Grand Trunk is a good concern to do business with—even though it is not a water supply from Lake Huron.

Thirty years ago both Bay City and Saginaw were humming, thriving centers of the lumber industry. Today they appear dead—only a few new homes or buildings are being erected.

Bay City has a wonderful possibility as a seaport if the Grand Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway is ever put through. The Saginaw river flows through the center of the town and is almost as wide as the Detroit River at the foot of Woodward avenue.

Have you ever been in Durand? The appearance of the splendid little station is typical of the town itself. Durand must be a wonderful place. We have been in numerous railroad stations in the United States and other countries, but we'll never get out but to the Grand Trunk people for erecting in Durand a real railroad station.

But we were glad to get back to our own "home town." The Grand Trunk brakemen expressed our sentiments when he said, as we alighted from the train at the local station, "Birmingham is the finest small town in Michigan."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mollie Elizabeth Winegar Having been ill health for a number of years, Mrs. Mollie Elizabeth Winegar, 49 years old, wife of Henry H. Winegar, died at her home at 722 Purdy street, Saturday, December 30.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday of this week, burial in Roseland Park cemetery. Rev. Julian West, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Birmingham, officiated at the services.

Mrs. Winegar is survived by her husband, Henry H. Winegar, one daughter, Gladys, at home, and one son, Ray, living in Detroit. She also leaves two sisters, Magie, Grell, of Pleasant Hill, Ill., and two brothers, F. A. Rian of Chicago, and C. E. Rian of Detroit.

Born in Scott county, Ill., Feb. 14, 1873, Mrs. Winegar lived in that locality until her marriage in 1896. After being married she lived in Utica, Mich., Brooklyn, N. Y., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Kansas City, Mo. In 1908 the family moved on a farm just south of Birmingham. For the past three years she had lived on Purdy street.

Mrs. Lydia B. Andrews After being married to the late Mr. Andrews, 623 Pierce street, since December 1, Mrs. Lydia B. Andrews, 74 years old, wife of the late Captain J. W. Andrews, died Wednesday, Jan. 3, Mrs. Andrews has been an invalid for a number of years.

A brief service will be held at Mrs. Andrews' home on Pierce street Friday morning. Burial will be made at the Arlington cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Andrews is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Matilda Grove and Mrs. Mary J. Morris. They both live in Birmingham. One daughter, Mrs. W. R. Morris of Maywood, Ill., also survives. Mrs. Andrews had lived in Birmingham for the past three years, making her home with her sister, Mrs. Grove.

Weddings

Schultz-Leafdale.

Word has just reached Birmingham of the marriage of Miss Anna Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schultz, of Stanley road, east of Birmingham, to Mr. Harry B. Leafdale, a rancher of Dix, Neb. The wedding took place on December 12, 1922 at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Lutheran parsonage in Sidney, Nebraska, the home of the groom's brother and sister, Rev. W. T. Kabac officiated. A wedding supper was served after the wedding vows were spoken. Attendants at the affair were Mr. Virgil Staley and Miss Maurine Swanson. The couple will live on their ranch.

THEORETICALLY, MAN NEED NOT DIE

When scientists can take cells from animals and keep them alive indefinitely, multiplying, functioning, and unchanged, it would seem that if man knew the secret of everlasting life he could avoid death.

Within reasonable limits any one can add five, ten or twenty years to his life. One way to do this is to avoid sickness.

Some people seem to be able to acquire sickness on the least provocation but, nevertheless, should take precautions.

People desiring the modern method of retaining that prime known as health take adjustments. Chiropractic can keep you well and it is the modern way to get you well.

Take adjustments. An analysis will cost you absolutely nothing and I will be glad to tell you what Chiropractic adjustments do for you.
