WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

F. C. Huston, prominent village merchant and builder of the new block of buildings, including the new post office now under construction on Woodward avenue, "I hope to see the new post office completed by August first so that at that time the postoffice officials will be able to move into larger quarters."
Arthur J. Tugue, prominent local real estate man: "The prospects for a flourishing year in real estate are bright, but until this city has a board of commerce, which will boost this town by advertising and thus put it on the map, or have the Real Estate Board take similar action in the market, Birmingham is going to continue to progress slowly. What we must do is to advertise the advantages obtained by living here."
Mrs. Letta Egan of North Woodward avenue: "Mr. C. C. Osborn should be complimented on the fine appearance of Grand Trunk station grounds. There never was such a mass of bloom there, and the results show the wonderful care they must have received. If all the people of our Village took as much care of their premises as above cited, Birmingham would be a veritable garden of paradise."

Mrs. Lee White, of Brookside Drive: "The bond issue as presented by the School Board seems to me to be the best solution of our school problems. Without it we are sure to find ourselves confronted by a disastrous shortage of school room, and with taxes much higher than at present in order to meet the combined expenses of present and future building. I certainly hope the general vote is 'YES'."
Mrs. Ray R. McCutcheon, president of Hill P. A.: "Every parent and those interested in the future of Birmingham's school children should be at the Annual Meeting of the School District, July 9, and vote for the bond issue as put forth by the Board."

Helen V. Salisbury, president of Board of Education for Flaming, Kentucky, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Moore, of 213 North Woodward avenue. Tuesday.

Mrs. Hallie Chandler and Miss Eliza Mahoney, of New Castle, Kentucky, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Moore, of 213 North Woodward avenue. Tuesday.

At the I. O. O. F. Temple Saturday
A deafening roar—then tons of rock and earth rent sunder by a charge of dynamite, rise in the air. Charles Jones, bound and gagged about a hundred feet near the tunnel containing blasting powder sees everything going on. He knows there is a man in the tunnel. Fritz Brunette, as the daughter of the superintendent, must pull the switch. What happens next in "Pass of Camp Four" makes a thrilling tale not to be forgotten soon. This picture will be shown here Saturday evening at the I. O. O. F. Temple.
