"Trailing African Wild Animals" At The Baldwin, Royal Oak

"One of the saddest occurrences of our two year's trip into the wilds of British East Africa almost took the life of a young South American cowboy whom we encountered in the woods," says Mrs. Martin Johnson, who accompanied her husband during the eventful expedition into the heart of Africa where they photographed wild animals in their natural state. Their photoplay, "Trailing African Wild Animals," released by Metro Picture Corporation, will be at the Baldwin Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 3 and 4.

"We were pretty far from civilization when we met this chap, a happy, agreeable youth, who was out after some live specimens for a zoo with which he was associated. His Airedale was his only companion.

"He joined our safari and we continued on our way. One morning he had gone out after some fresh meat for the camp. After he had been gone for some time, one of the natives came rushing back, breathless and excited. All we could understand was that his master was in trouble.

"Mr. Johnson and I both picked up our rifles and rushed to the spot, the Airedale running with us. We found him, lying on the ground in a pool of blood. He barely had strength enough to warn us to keep away from a nearby bush, in which a leopard was hiding.

"Determined to get the animal, the natives beat the bush. In a flash the angry animal came rushing out. As soon as he emerged, the dog leaped up at him and caught him on the jaw. The leopard just as quickly took a bite out of the dog's leg.

"Mr. Johnson has his gun ready, and soon put an end to the leopard's career. Later we learned the story of what had happened.

"The cowboy, seeing the leopard, had shot at him, but his shot went astray. The animal leaped at him, and when he attempted to fire again, he missed. For what seemed fully a half hour the cowboy fought it out, the animal clawing the man's body frightfully. The chap attempted to choke the beast, and tightened his grasp about the animal's neck. Finally he felt himself slipping, and he had to give up his hold.

"When the leopard had had enough, he hid in the bushes, leaving his victim frightfully mangled. We did what we could for the unfortunate chap, dressing his wounds and getting him to a hospital. Recently we received a letter from his nurse, who wrote that they feared he might never regain the use of his arms and legs, for the muscles were so badly cut. He had not lost his cheerfulness, however."

CALIFORNIA LURES TWO LOCAL TEACHERS

In two weeks Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Waterman and their son, Bonar, will leave Birmingham. Mrs. Waterman has been the session room teacher in Baldwin High School for the past four years, where she has accomplished extremely successful work. The family have made their home on Merrill street during their entire residence here.

Mrs. Waterman and Bonar left Wednesday for Ypsilanti, where she will attend summer school, and Bonar will study violin. Mr. Waterman, with his wife's father, L. J. Austin, who has lived in Birmingham for the past year, and Harold McCrae, the manual training teacher in the High School this year, will leave July 1 for California, where Mrs. Waterman and Bonar will join them later in the year to make their future home. Mrs. Waterman's departure will be a disinct loss to the High School, and appreciation of this loss was shown last week through a number of lovely gifts which were presented to her by various classes and organizations within the School.

LOCAL WOMAN CELEBRATES EIGHTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Thursday evening, June 14, a dinner party was given Mrs. Rhoda Skinner by her children at her home on North Woodward avenue in celebration of her 87th birthday. Roses and peonies were used for the centerpiece of the large family table. During the day Mrs. Skinner received many beautiful gifts from her numerous friends and relatives. Out-of-town guests were her sons, F. M. Ferguson and wife, of Oakland, Cal., and U. Grant Race and family of Detroit.

LOCAL EPWORTH LEAGUES ENJOY MOONLIGHT BOAT RIDE

Thursday evening of last week 35 gay young people left Birmingham for Detroit, where they joined over 2,000 young folks who belonged to the Epworth League District of Detroit, Birmingham, Royal Oak and Redford. At 8:15 the party started on a "moonlight" down the river and arrived back in Detroit later in the evening. They were provided with royal entertainment all the time that they were on the boat. The Hudson Male Quartet and the orchestra from Trinity church in Highland Park provided splendid music all during the evening. A mysterious magician was also on board, and he succeeded in presenting a lively program. Each church group gave their own particular yells, and everyone joined in playing games later in the evening. The occasion was voted by all to have been a huge success.
