COMING ATTRACTION

Marionettes, or puppets as they are sometimes called, are mechanical dolls operated by strings and capable of almost every human action as well as many astonishing tricks. They perform their farces and comedies on a stage perfectly proportioned to their size with every detail of the properties and settings carefully worked out. The operators are unseen so that the spectator gets the illusion of viewing human people, yet without an added magic charm that only the marionette possesses.

The ancient art of puppet play has been revived in the remote shadow-land of the past. Marionettes were known to ancient Greece and Rome; they flourished in China, Siam and Japan, where the puppets and shadow play exist at the present time; and they flourished in Europe during the Middle Ages, a great source of entertainment to the masses.

Even among the American Indians dramatized plays were used during ceremonial dances. Recently puppets were introduced into this country very successfully by Tony Sarg, and their vogue is spreading with amazing rapidity through every part of the United States.

Realizing the great charm of these creatures, the Puppeteers, students in the University of Michigan, have prepared a delightful marionette program, and will present it in Birmingham during the second week of April under the auspices of the Camp Fire Girls.

ASSEMBLY

Friday, March 10, Assembly was held in the auditorium under the auspices of the Sophomore Class and the Seventh Grade.

Some time ago at a Senior Assembly, Miss Davis and the instructor of piano of the Royal Oak Conservatory gave an enjoyable program. This week they graciously consented to appear again at the request of the Sophomores.

To open exercises the school sang the School Song. Mr. Ralph Cranford, the teacher of singing, gave several pleasing numbers. The first one "Romance" by Wieniawski, following this in order he gave "Fantasia and Caprice" by Wieniawski, "Oriental" by Cui and "Rondino" by Beethoven-Kreutzer.

Miss Cahow from the education department, gave a number of pleasing readings. She gave "The Nightingale and the Rose" written by Oscar Wilde, which was accompanied by music. She also gave some dialect readings.

Miss Grace Davis gave two delightful vocal solos, one "To a Hill Top" and the other "Spring Song." Had the time been long enough, or not have passed so rapidly the seventh grade would have given a pantomime and there would have been two readings, one by Dorothy Cook and the other by Helen Clarke.

MT. CLEMENS DEFEATS LOCALS
The final and most important inter-school basketball game was played last Friday at Mt. Clemens between Mt. Clemens and Birmingham, the former winning 19-15. This game decided the southeastern champions, Mt. Clemens winning that honor.

Mt. Clemens played good basketball all through the game. Their offense was not very good, but with a very strong defense held the Birmingham boys to seven field baskets, all of which were made by different players. In the beginning period a considerable number of fouls were called on both teams. That is where Mt. Clemens got the jump on the local team, for they made most of them count while Birmingham caged only two out of nine tries.

The Birmingham first five did not display the brand of basketball that they are capable of playing, and the subs were put in. Things began to look different from this point on when the whistle blew for the ending of the half Mt. Clemens was only three points in the lead: 12-9.

The second half started and the Birmingham regulars were put in again, but the opposing side started ringing a few more, and before long were leading by eight points. All at once the Birmingham team was up and dropped two more baskets, again it looked as though they would stage a comeback but all in vain. The subs were put in for the last three minutes of play but the lead was too great for them to overcome. It was stated afterwards by several who witnessed the game, that if the subs had played the whole game, Birmingham would have won.

Next week the Birmingham basketball team will play at Ypsilanti in the state tournament. Coach Drake is expecting a strong showing at this event and the boys are still on fire.

LOCALS LOSE FIRST TRACK MEET TO HIGHLAND PARK
Last Saturday the Birmingham track team visited Highland Park and were snowed under, the latter winning by 18-0. Birmingham played first in only one event that being the shot-put by Koks.

Coach Drake has given most of his time to basketball but from now on plans to develop the track team. There is some good material out this year and everyone is looking forward to a good record by these men: Reid, Davis, Ross, Hancock, Smith, DeLoach, Burkan, Rollins, Corryell and a few others.
