TO PENALIZE THE CARELESS

Wisconsin Industrial Commission Would Have Reckless Pay For Damage Caused by Fires.

The justice of penalizing individual carelessness, when it results in fire damage to the property of others, is effectively argued in the following brief bulletin issued by the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin:

A crook robs a national bank of $2,000,000. The entire police powers of the state and nation are put to work to apprehend him.

A man deliberately sets fire to a grain elevator in which $1,000,000 worth of grain is stored. Some fire marshal's deputy, alone and unarmed, investigates this fire in the hope of discovering sufficient evidence to bring the guilty man to trial, before a jury prejudiced against circumstantial evidence.

A man's sheer carelessness causes a fire which destroys $100,000 worth of his neighbor's property. Nothing is done to punish this man; actually a certain amount of misplaced sympathy is wasted on him because of his own loss.

Why this widely different public attitude in these three cases asks safeguarding America Against Fire. The robber can be traced to put the stolen money into circulation and from the economic standpoint, the country as a whole will have lost nothing.

In the other two cases $1,000,000 worth of wealth is destroyed and the country is just that much poorer. The people, not insurance companies, will pay for this loss in larger insurance premiums and higher costs of everything. If the fire marshal's deputy is fortunate enough to prove guilty beyond a reasonable doubt the man is punished; but nothing is done to the man in the third case; although the effect in the last two cases on the community and country is the same.

It is right that the robber and the incendiary should be punished; it is wrong that the man whose absolute carelessness has caused a like injury should go unpunished. Under the Code Napoleon such a man must reimburse his neighbors for their loss and he incurs for such contingency.

GET CLEAN AND STAY CLEAN

Communication to Metropolitan Newspaper Would Seem to Be Applicable to Any Community.

A communication to the Kansas City Star says: "No time to clean up now," says Dr. E. H. Bullock. When there are piles of rubbish and trash around the city, must we wait until May 1 to dispose of them? Is that modern health theory? Is not prevention the best cure?

"Our vacant lots are alive with trash—it blows in our eyes and throats. It is in evidence wherever we go in certain districts. The town is alive with trash now, why wait until May to clean it up? Do we take a bath only once a year? Are we not compelled to wash our faces and hands a dozen times a day for the dirt and soot? Any time dirt and trash accumulate in clean-up time. You cannot keep up with dirt, unless you clean up as you go along, same as with garbage or any kind of housekeeping."
