Housekeeping and Leisure

IT USED TO BE a common expression—referring to household duties—that women's work was never done. The saying was true enough ten, even five years ago. It is not true of the housekeepers of today—at least of that great number who let electricity do their heavier and most tiring tasks.

Nowadays, the washing and ironing is done in less than the time required by the old-fashioned hand method—by electricity.

Dishes may be washed, rinsed, and dried without soiling the hands and with less chance of breakage to the most fragile articles—by electricity.

Dust and dirt may be removed from carpets, upholstery and clothes with a minimum of time and labor—by electricity.

A score of other tedious and tiring tasks may be done with immense saving of time and effort. No longer can it be said that women's work is never done. On the contrary her work is done quickly, pleasantly, and with less of leisure left over—by electricity.

An Appreciation of Red
Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

THERE'S just one way you can know the vast difference between Red Crown and other gasolines. That is by asking Red Crown to get you out of difficulties. It does it every time.

Here's one man's experience:

"Red Crown had been my engine fuel for many years—long tried, well tested, and entirely satisfactory—

"But, in a foolish moment, YOU KNOW, on the advice of a (so-called high-test) gasoline salesman, I changed my brand, and for several months used other kinds of gasoline with various unsettling results, as: Short mileage, with more frequent filling of my gas tank; hard to start after the lighter elements were used out of my tank; lack of power on a hill, with always in low as I climbed; and, to top my difficulties, one day I ran out of 'gas' on the hill.

"Then I was cured. I had always carried a gallon of Red Crown under the seat, and I put it in the tank and climbed the hill on high gear for the first time in months. Red Crown for me from now on."

Furthermore, Red Crown takes a hint with a haste that will delight you. It has the right attitude toward its job—peppy, active, ready to anticipate your desires, and always dependable.

Forestall trouble. Put Red Crown in your tank now—and laugh at sand, grades and mud!
