SOCIETY

SOUTHWARD TRAVEL PROVES POPULAR WITH RESIDENTS

A general getting process has taken place in society after the rush of the holidays. The affairs of the past week have taken on a more formal atmosphere and are inclined to be more simple than the holiday affairs. Those who are accustomed to exit southward each year have either gone during the past week or are planning to do so in the near future. There are also a number of new names this year among the Southern travelers.

Alicia Fuller, Noted Composer of Music, Is Now a Local Resident

The latest and one of the more important additions to Birmingham's colony of devotees of the fine arts is Miss Alicia von Tyska Fuller, who, with her parents came to Birmingham a few months ago to make her home and to study, being appointed "The Chair" at 1800 New Woodward avenue. She is a pianist and composer of rare ability and exceptional attainments, and has been recognized by her love for music. Her father is an organist, choir trainer and composer of unusual accomplishment. Her mother is a graduate of the Schawenkas in Berlin.

Born in New York, Miss Fuller came to Detroit in early childhood, when her father engaged in business. All of her early training was under the guidance of her parents, and at the age of fourteen she took up the study of picture playing on an organ, for some years. Those who heard her efforts in this direction marveled at her ability.

During the summer of 1920 she had her first desire for composition. Then living at the home of her parents, she took up the study of picture playing on an organ, for some years. Those who heard her efforts in this direction marveled at her ability.

Mrs. James R. Hughes of Southfield avenue, who for the past several weeks has been suffering from almost total blindness is regaining her sight under the treatment of Dr. Eiker of Pontiac. Mr. Hughes expects, within a few months, to again be able to take up her work in book-keeping.

Mrs. Jennie Ferguson of Birmingham is making a short visit at the home of her son, John Ferguson, at Freeland.

Mrs. J. L. Campbell of East Maple avenue entertained the Maple Bridge Club this afternoon at a bridge-luncheon.

Miss Margaret Berz, who is a student at the University of Michigan, spent last week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berz of Pierce street.

Last Friday, Mrs. Adam Gray of Oakland avenue entertained her sister, Mrs. C. L. Parks of Romeo. Mrs. Gray was recently a resident in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chamberlain of Bates street had as their guests last Saturday, their son and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. C. Wilson of Detroit.

The past week Mrs. J. B. Minton of Oakland avenue has been entertained by Mrs. John Stevenson of Holly, a house guest.

Over the past week-end Miss Esther Smith Burns entertained, as the guest of Miss Clarabel Carson at her home in Detroit.

Mrs. Fannie M. Johnson has given up her temporary home on Manor road, and is now at home in her lovely new home close by, which has just been completed.

Rev. Charles H. McCurdy entertained at luncheon in the Bir-Wood Inn last Friday for Rev. Walter Williams, Rev. S. W. Daniels, Roland Dischoff and John Gaffill, the former two were his guests over the week-end. Also among his guests at luncheon were Mrs. Eugene Brooks and his mother, Mrs. McCurdy.

MISS RUTH MAYNARD TO SING OVER WJW RADIO

Radio enthusiasts will have the pleasure of listening to more Birmingham talent over the radio Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 7:30 p.m. Miss Ruth Maynard, prominent in musical circles here, will sing the program of the Detroit News.

Her selections will be, "To the Sun" (Carrar), "Mildmay" (Footes), "To a Hilltop" (Cox). Mr. Staebler of Lincoln avenue, will accompany her on the piano.

Previous to her residence here, Miss Maynard was connected in a musical way with the Boulevard congregational church of Detroit for eight years.

At present, she is soloist at the local Methodist Episcopal church. She has a rich, vibrant, soprano voice, and the event of her appearance on the radio program is looked forward to with anticipation. Miss Maynard herself says appearing before an unaccustomed audience is a new and highly interesting experience.

Arrangements are now being completed by Miss Fuller's manager which will take her to Europe for concert work and study. However, before her departure she expects to complete a series of compositions upon which she is now working.

The studio home of Miss Fuller in the east end of the city, overlooking over the valley with the River Rouge flowing through it. "It is all a part of my inspiration and it is so hard to leave it, but an artist is never completely until he has had some contact with the great outdoors. I cannot be content until I have spent some time in Europe," said Miss Fuller last week.

Though regretting to see her go, Birmingham may take a great deal of pride in the fact that one of its own residents has attained such heights as to be ready for work abroad.

JOINS THE BENEDICTS

Mrs. James R. Hughes of Southfield avenue, who for the past several weeks has been suffering from almost total blindness is regaining her sight under the treatment of Dr. Eiker of Pontiac. Mr. Hughes expects, within a few months, to again be able to take up her work in book-keeping.

NORMAN PARKS

Wachter—Parks

A quiet wedding occurred in Detroit Thursday evening, Jan. 10, 8 o'clock, when Evelyn Wachter and Norman Parks, a former Birmingham boy, were married in the parlor of the Fourteenth Street M. E. church, Rev. G. V. Hoard performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Parks is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wachter of Fourteenth Street and around Birmingham. Mr. Parks was a member of the 1920 graduating class of the Detroit high school and a very popular student during his school days here.

The only guests at the wedding were Miss Frances Thornton of Detroit as the bride's attendant and Harry Brooks of Birmingham, who performed the duties of best man. After a short trip the couple will be at home in the Scott Apartments on Peterboro street, where they have taken an apartment.
