Among the number of hostesses at "watch parties" on New Year's eve was Mrs. J. J. Jones, who entertained at her home on Madison avenue. The evening was spent at bridge and in which the old game was about to take leave, lunch was announced and served in the dining room which was cleverly decorated with Christmas colors...

The Blooming Hills Country Club was the scene of a delightful party New Year's eve when the members and their guests were entertained at a dinner-dance. The room was decorated in the gayest colors and the Spring-festival decorations were in evidence...

The Baptist choir was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Parmenter on Monday evening. In the spacious dining room of the Parmenter country home, lunch was served at seven o'clock to twenty-five guests. The evening was spent in games with several musical numbers, until twelve o'clock when the party welcomed the New Year.

James and George McKnight, sons of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. McKnight returned to Ann Arbor Wednesday when they will resume their studies at the University of Michigan. Mr. McKnight is a member of the class and has recently announced his marriage.

On New Year's Day at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bayley entertained at their home on Quaker road. Mrs. Loren G. Stauch was hostess at a tea at her home on Ridgelande last Monday afternoon, honoring Miss Katherine A. Fanning who is planning to conduct a group of Birmingham people on a tour through Europe.

Howard C. Eather of East Lansing was a guest of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. McKnight at their home on West Boulevard last evening. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Miller and Mrs. Edgar, of 212 Oakland avenue, spent Christmas and New Year's at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Starr of Royal Oak.

Mrs. Thomas Thompson of Jacksonville spent Christmas and New Year's at the home of Mrs. V. J. Braun of Lindis Vista, on Woodward avenue. The Misses Liebia and Ella Davent of East Maple avenue returned Tuesday morning from Smithport, Birmingham, where they attended the wedding of Miss Vera Freeman and Clayton Keith of Terraviva, N. Y.

A very novel decorative scheme was the keynote to the New Year's eve party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Pierson on Squirrel road. The house was made to resemble a ship which gave a gay background to the unique maquerades of the guests, who numbered about fifty. The party was a continual arrival and departure of guests as was the case at all of the parties on that evening. The New Year's morning, Mr. and Mrs. Walker W. Carver entertained about twenty guests at breakfast at their home on Southfield avenue. The house was very pretty with its great bouquets of spring flowers and at midnight supper was served after the evening spent at bridge.

After spending the holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams O'Neil of Southfield avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parkhurst returned to their home in Leedside, Wednesday. Rev. C. M. Thompson of Ferndale avenue spent New Year's day with his son, C. Earle Thompson of Detroit. The only difference between the reception given by Bishop and Mrs. Henderson at their home in Virginia Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Hedding of Lloyd street were the guests of Mrs. Hedding's mother in Drayton Plains, last evening. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith of Brownell street had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McKnight and Mrs. E. Hendries of Royal Oak.

Miss Louise Shepard, formerly of Birmingham, entertained a party at her home in Pleasant Ridge on New Year's evening. The guests were a number of her former friends. The evening was spent in dancing and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Robert Lynd of Ferndale avenue yesterday attended a luncheon given by her college sorority at the home of Mrs. Russell Emmett in Highland Park. Miss Belle Butts has returned to her home in Rochester after spending the holidays with Mrs. Nell Rosso of Bates street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Guild of the Baptist church will be held Thursday, Jan. 10, at 2:30 in the church. A dinner party marked the 25th anniversary of the founding of the I. N. Voorheis of Bates street, last Friday evening. Besides their own family the guests included Mrs. E. G. Crawford and Mrs. Voorheis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Crawford of Buck for VanWinkle, Smith for Berger.

The excitement reached high tide when the Alumni, represented by last year's varsity aggregation, clashed with current jugglers. The game started at 9:05 and kept everyone on their feet and cheering until the end. From the outset, it was evident that the mechanical teamwork of the youngsters, as they were called, was the amusement by getting people on their feet. The varsity themselves, for the youngsters were not to be crossed in their frivolity and they did not fail to display their talents before we can speak of victory with any degree of certainty. Many times during the evening, a spectacular play would cause hope for the only to be followed by an equally spectacular error. The Alumni took their time and worked the ball down; the '24 aggregation rushed it heading, shooting from all points and kept the right ones. Even then, half their time was spent in the backboard attempts missing.

However, it is better to have our Alumni indicate our weakness than to have our opponents indicate our strength. After all, the score wasn't so one-sided and it was a hard, interesting game. We have the best Alumni in the state and will have the best Varsity, So, let's go!

At the Sunday morning service of St. James' Episcopal church, Rev. H. H. Fox, Bishop of Michigan, will deliver the sermon. The choir is arranging special music for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Williams of Brown street had as their guests on New Year's Day, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pepprell and family, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pepprell, of Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. Oley Bell of Cleveland are visiting Mr. Bell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pepprell, of Willets street. Mrs. J. C. Lawton of Oakland avenue entertained Mrs. Adeline and Frances Killian of Detroit at her home New Year's Day. She will also be hostess for the luncheon tomorrow in honor of Mrs. Thomas Griffin of Detroit, who with her children, Mrs. Margaret and Phillip, is her house guest.

Alumni Jot Varsity - K. of P. Smear Pontiac Presbyterians Thursday evening the residents of Birmingham who were present at the Baldwin gym received a treat of basketball, not all of them were what you might call satisfied with the result. The local K. P. organization took the floor at 7:45. In the line-up were several old high school stars, even though they have faded considerably, proved themselves still good football players on a basketball court. The game was rough, in some places it became almost corrugated. The only difference between the grid was that when you took the goal in the football game, the football and basketball you're out. O'Toole and Voorheis were the most brilliant players. Local constellations, while they showed occasional flashes of intelligent ability for the opposition, Bailey of Pontiac showed great ability when he continued during the whole front row of his constellations passed into athletic with ability. Coach VanWinkle spent the first half at left guard for the R. P. outfit. He was real spry for his age and showed on a basketball court. He was inquisitive just how it is done in the most select circles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Baker entertained W. M. McClellan of Battle Creek at their home on Southfield avenue last evening. Miss George Rogers and Warren L. Rogers, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, both of Detroit, spent Christmas with their sister, Mrs. Christal Jenkins of Watkins street. After spending the holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams O'Neil of Southfield avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parkhurst returned to their home in Leedside, Wednesday. Rev. C. M. Thompson of Ferndale avenue spent New Year's day with his son, C. Earle Thompson of Detroit. The only difference between the reception given by Bishop and Mrs. Henderson at their home in Virginia Park.
