Forgetting

We are so used nowadays to wonderfull things that we are apt to forget their ap-plication to our needs. Some people, for in-stance, forget that a very efficient general ser-vant waits behind the electric push-button in their homes.

It should be remembered that lighting is only one of the functions of this ever-present, never-tiring servant, It will also respond to your call, at any hour of the twenty-four, to perform, perfectly and at furfiling cost, your heaviest and most tiring housework.

Your washing, your ironing, your sweeping, your dish washing, can all be done electrically at immenses a fine of your time, your health, and your strength.
