Local Marine At Virgin Islands

Startups on a tour of duty in the West Indies, Clifford Alexander Fairbank, formerly of Birmingham, Mich., is now on duty with the U. S. Marines at the Virgin Islands. He will probably remain abroad for a year or longer before returning to the United States.

Clifford, who is a son of Mr. Peter Fairbank, Bojars Farm, Birmingham, joined the Marine Corps at Detroit, in May, 1923. He was stationed at Quantico, Va., before being transferred to the U. S. S. Kitty, which left the U. S. S. recently with detachments of Marines for Haiti, Cuba and the Virgin Islands.

The Virgin Islands, formerly the Danish West Indies, were purchased by the American Government from Denmark about seven years ago, and since that time detachments of Marines have been stationed there. They form one of the strategic outposts of the Panama Canal.

We are hereby announcing to our friends and patrons that we are taking steps to complete this dissolution, and we wish to advise that the entire indebtedness of the H. G. Field Construction Company will be assumed by H. George Field, who is the principal stockholder of the above corporation.
