

WARDROBES

The word "trunk" does not fully describe the convenience of a Hartmann, for a Hartmann is more than a "trunk" in appearance and in service. It's a modern clothes closet the year 'round and travels garments immaculately ready for any social occasion.

Doy. This action is the result of a decision made last summer by the village commission to prepare the way to sell the library building and the subsequent erection of a modern City Hall and library building at some other location in Birmingham.

Defendants in the case are Samuel L. Allen, Henry Hutchinson, Mortimer Smith, George Blumberg, J. Ten Eyck and the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan. The property was left to Birmingham by the late Martha Baldwin, with the stipulation that a public library always be maintained by the village, failure of doing so would forfeit the property to the University.

BREWER TELLS LEAGUE ABOUT COUNTY STATUS

(Continued from Page One.) explaining that as far as the expenses were concerned, and it is by these that the tax is appropriated, that in many cases Oakland County was less than one-half those of other counties, but he could not give a definite proportion with other counties. He cited the case of the upkeep of the automobile, which last year cost Oakland County $9,811.07, including first costs of the machines, gasoline, oil and upkeep, while in Kent county the same cost was $18,000. Much of this was due to the condition of the roads, etc.

He also showed that a large amount of money was being saved by putting off on an easy plan rather than a fee basis, which had been impossible until two years ago, when a law was passed that if interest at the rate of 4 per cent while the commercial account is receiving 2 1/2 per cent. Much of the savings is being distributed in the banks throughout the county rather than allowing a few of the banks caring of all of it.

The county is not altogether without an independent source of income because of the fact that it has a cement block factory. From 500 to 800 blocks are manufactured a day, yielding a net profit of about $1,000 a month. The employees, who are prisoners from the county jail, number from 15 to 25 a day and receive as compensation 25c per day and their tobacco and a better food than the rest of the prisoners. It is expected that they will be able to make bricks and potato crates some time in the near future. The articles are for sale for anyone wishing to purchase them, said Mr. Brewer.

At a recent meeting, it was decided to employ a county nurse some time in the near future, and the board have been asking for $213,000 to be levied by the one mill tax for a new building for the county hospital. "If anyone is opposed to paying the one mill tax, I wish they would visit the poor farm and see for themselves the conditions existing there and I am sure they would not become any longer," said Mr. Brewer.

Mr. Brewer also advocated the economy of keeping efficient accountants for more than one term for the reason that labor turnover is expected to be a new and a new one. He said hold of things in the way an experienced official can.

Following Mr. Brewer's talk, Miss Maty Martin of the Community House addressed the club expanding the economy of the County Hospital. She showed what organizations have developed, many of these arising out of a much felt need for them. She emphasized the fact that the House is non-sectarian and desires to serve the community regardless of religion, class, nationality, age, or any other so-called boundary.
