THREE per cent of Michigan's population of ten years and over cannot read or write. The nation's average is twice as high as six per cent.

Michigan people are broadminded, tolerant, and educated. They are products of schools that are second to none in America.

Public, Private, and Church Schools have worked together in a program of state-wide education. Each deserves credit for the part it has played.

Michigan's splendid record for literacy would be threatened. Preserve our high standard of education by voting "NO".
