WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

(Little Editorials picked up by the Staff in and around Birmingham.)

M. R. F. of Boston Blvd., Detroit: "In the proposed widening of Woodward avenue in Birmingham, is it not possible to retain the grand old trees which line the street on either side and add so much to the beauty of the very pretty village? It must have taken years to attain their present size and to remove them would seem not much short of a crime. There surely must be some means whereby the trees may remain and the widening go on. A well known automobile manufacturer in this state will not take a single inch of any kind cut down on any of his property without a special permit. Let everyone bend their efforts to keep the trees and Woodward avenue and let the car tracks and other things conform."

Walter F. Johnston of Santa Monica, Cal., formerly a resident of Birmingham: "At the present, the biggest mistake Birmingham could make would be to let the 'Wider Woodward' plan bring two business streets to Birmingham. To let another main street or pavement follow the Grand Trunk right-of-way through Birmingham would be a mistake that could never be remedied. What a pity it was not decided to bring Main St. to the people from Detroit. If the Grand Trunk right-of-way was to be used in place of widening Woodward, there is no telling the wonderful hope to bring here would be carried out that other street and there would be the future main street of Birmingham. No doubt that was the end of the project. I say widen Woodward avenue through Birmingham and there will be no regrets. This is an age when we must keep an eye on the future and Birmingham is offered an unusual opportunity here for foresight and I sincerely hope that you will not take the wrong move."

E. W. Smith, of the Star Motor Coach Line: "The telephone service in Birmingham is the very best I have ever had occasion to use in my contact with. I have had occasion to use the phone a great deal in my business in many towns and for quick and accurate service I think Birmingham is at the head of the list. On the long distance call to Detroit and suburbs I have received especially quick service and I like to make calls through the Birmingham exchange."

George Williams, Editor of the Ferndale Enterprise: "For a place to live, I can think of no place that would be a more ideal residence spot than Birmingham. Five years ago when I first saw Birmingham I thought it was the prettiest town I had ever seen. The business district was a busy, active place, but it had kept that quaint, old-fashioned beauty that towns so often lose when they begin to grow. In the last five years I have become so accustomed to the place that I forget what an unusual place it is and I suppose that is the way with the people who live here. They take the beauty of Birmingham for granted and it takes some of us who live in the more recently developed sections and subdivisions to awaken their appreciation again."

Ralph Ryder, of the Standard Oil filling station on Woodward at Hamilton: "This pavement in front of the gas station serves as a convenient short cut for people wishing to go north on Woodward from Hamilton and the other way about. In fact they use it more than they do the regular pavement on Hamilton. You know, as much as is paid of the street was financed by the Standard Oil people, as sort of an ad to their gas station. The more pavement a gas station has around it, the more trade it will get. Motorists like to come where it is convenient."
