St. James' Street Fair Successful In Every Respect

Third Annual Fair Here Draws $2,000.00 Last Saturday; Many Enjoy Dancing. A radiogram from the S. S. Empire of France, addressed to the St. James' Street Fair, signed by Mrs. T. R. Donovan, James Fair workers on Saturday evening, informed the committee that the fair proved the most successful financially in the history of the annual enterprise. The proceeds of the fair, which opened on Saturday evening and closed on Sunday, were $2,000.00. The fair was held at the St. James' Street Fair Grounds, and drew a large crowd of people. The fair was a success in every respect, and many people enjoyed the dancing and other attractions.

Real Thirstiness. He that thirsts for anything is an insatiable niggard. He that saps in nothing is an inexhaustible man. The man is to starve by what he least needs, and to lay sick more liberally in what is most required.—Halifax.

Seems Unfair Arrangement. The poor man, miserly, sits out and weather the storm, while the rich man can stay at home and feast at the weather.
