

The Community House is Next In Importance To Woodward Project

By Helen Shaw Stauch.

The Community House, next to the widening of Woodward avenue, is in all probability, the most talked of matter in the village today...

public director who has always good advice and keen appreciation of any situation. It provides a meeting place for friends, or for the neighborhood, or for any special gatherings of individuals...

That the Community House does render an actual service is apparent by the fact that between 1800 and 1900 persons use it monthly...

As a center for village relief work the House has served a profitable role. It makes an exceptionally good headquarters, and being in touch with the demands of the neighborhood...

Beginning Monday morning, the House serves first one and then another from morning until evening...

Organization clubs, business men, detached individuals, all gave something to make the Christmas a happy one, and Christmas spirit was everywhere...

One of the greatest services given by the Community House is its recreational work with the young people. Both boys and girls of adolescent ages require certain types of recreation...

These Blue Birds meet regularly once a week at the Community House. They have for their motto the words "Sing, Help and Grow."

There has been a great need for similar activities among children of the same age which is being met with the present organization of Blue Birds and which will be broadened into the Girl Reserve Movement.

Each child has taken a different bird name as their symbol, so that the watching of their birds will be an added incentive.

Another service given by the Community House is the information file, which is being broadened into the Girl Reserve Movement.

It is further hoped that the 31st day of August, 1925, will be a day of the far future, as said probate officer, and is hereby appointed for the settlement of all claims against said estate.

Do you realize how delightful and unexpensive the Community House is for small private parties?

Because it provides a social center for Birmingham and vicinity. Because it contributes in so many ways to the general progress and welfare.

Because it is non-sectarian and non-exclusive a symbol of a village united. Birmingham is growing fast and the needs of our Community House are growing, too.

towards probing the enticing mysteries of bird lore. Blue Birds themselves are adaptable and eager to learn. They are trying to be good sports to their neighbors...

Scouts Appreciate Atmosphere Of Home

By Lloyd Stanley.

The Birmingham District Committee for the Boy Scouts of America has under its jurisdiction all scout activities within the village, and the surrounding territory.

Under its jurisdiction are Troop B-1, B-3 and B-4. Troop B-1, has been organized for about ten years and is sponsored by the Presbyterian church, holding its meetings in that building...

Success Of The Community House Is The Result Of Meticulous Work

Mr. H. A. O'Dell generously drew up the plans (for remodeling) and saw that they were carried out.

The third and last leaflet of this file shows to what dignity our Community House has risen. It is a very little tract of two pages with a cut of the front door on the cover...

Changing Public Contributions To Gold Of Community Welfare

By Iva Mariotte.

"Financial Statements" and "Yearly Reports" are filed and read. They have been known to draw many readers and frighten many others...

Appreciation by Miss Edith Roberts was presented and a community dance was given. Later, two other lectures were featured there, one by Charles Kinder, of Detroit, and one by Gustavus Hope, of Bloomfield Hills.

From February 1, 1924, to February 1, 1925, it required $2000.00 to run the Community House as a residential home, including telephone, service, insurance, supplies, entertainment and incidentals.

At Christmas time, the house was the center for a remarkable exhibition of unified effort in well doing. That is one of the highest and greatest aims of the Community House, to draw people together by providing a place where all can work together and play together.

The alterations which were carried out last summer included an outside door to the kitchenette, the removal of the partition between the kitchen and the living room, and the installation of a fireplace at the south end of what is now the assembly room.

The organization of the Girl Reserve, the Holiday Tea and the annual roll call are just ahead of us. Then will follow another year whose developments cannot be predicted, a free public lecture of Music dictated.

Social Evening For Teachers Each Month

By Clarence Vliet.

The teachers of Birmingham have used the Community House as a social center one night each month during the past year and have had most enjoyable meetings.

In Appreciation Of The Eccentric's Work

One more thing remains to be said, to be read, and to be ruminated upon...

"Dancing on the Terrace," but no mention anywhere of the borrowed lumber for the dance floor nor the tarpaulin and rain coats borrowed also to cover this lumber from the summer rains which came before it could be returned to its generous owner...

The task of printing this sheet and the expense were assumed voluntarily by him. We have known many things he has done of like nature. We wish to acknowledge publicly our gratitude to him.

And as for the historian, what care we for his poor little record of our efforts? We know that we have worked together, played together and to a degree achieved together and that the real thing is the service we can render the community in which we live and service they render us by letting us live there among them.
