THE ART OF DRIVING

By Ralph De Palma

© 1925 BY KELLY SPRINGFIELD TIRE CO.

ONE OF A SERIES OF TEN LESSONS

First—Courtesy and Safety

HERE are a few simple rules of the road which can be easily remembered by every one. A driver should always have regard for the welfare of other road users who have the same right to the highway that he has.

Never drive on the wrong side of or on the crown of the road unless you are sure that you are not inconveniencing others. Do not be selfish; let faster cars overtake you if they wish. Never pass on a curve or at a corner unless it is absolutely necessary.

In overtaking other vehicles of any type pass on the left or off side. Remember that highways are subverted to main roads in the matter of right of way. Never pass another car on a curve, or at a crossroad, or on a steep hill. Always give plenty of warning of your approach when there is the possibility of meeting other traffic. Never take chances with the brakes of your car. Always keep them in the best of condition.

Warning signs are not always well placed or placed to the best advantage but it is well worth making a habit of observing them. It will be cheaper in the end.

If you have not developed a fine sense of judgment by which you can tell in a second what distance you cover at any moment in relation to your car's speed at the time and know what reserve power you have at your disposal, you are not a first-class driver. You should develop that judgment by strict application of your driving.

In every case of emergency it is necessary for all your faculties to be concentrated for the moment on the problem in hand. Many lives have been saved or lost according to whether the result of one's thoughts had been put in action a second sooner or later.

FITTER FAMILIES CONTEST AT FAIR

TROPHIES TO BE AWARDED THOSE WHO WIN IN FOUR CLASSES SELECTED FOR EVENT

ALL MICHIGAN FAMILIES ELIGIBLE IN COMPETITION

The Fitter Families—Happier Homes contest, which is a new department this year, promises to be one of the most interesting and beneficial divisions of the seventy-sixth annual Michigan State Fair, which is to be held from September 1 to 12 at the fair grounds at East Lansing.

Dr. G. Van Amber Brown, of the Woodward Clinic, who has been appointed superintendent of the new department, is going ahead with plans that indicate the new department will be one of the big features of the fair. Mrs. Mary T. Watts, of Des Moines, who is supervisor of the department, is making plans to come to Detroit in ample time before the fair opening.

G. W. Dickinson, secretary manager, speaking of the Fitter Families—Happier Homes contest, said: "This department is one that will fit in nicely with the other educational work the fair has been carrying on for years and I am convinced that it is going to be a wonderful success."

Dr. Brown, who is taking a great interest in the work, has just returned from an extensive lecture tour in the upper peninsula, his lectures being along educational lines similar to the Fitter Families—Happier Homes contest. He is starting now to complete arrangements for the operation of the new department.

"We are going to use the model rural school house as a home for the new department, two hours being turned over for that purpose. The building is now being put in readiness. We look for the entry of several hundred Michigan families in this contest, which will be in the future a permanent feature of the fair."

The object of the contest is to acquaint Michigan families with a better health program for the winter family. Awards will be made for the best families in each of four classes, divided as follows: Man and wife, man, wife and one child; man, wife and two, three or four children; and man, wife and five or more children.

AUTOS PARTICIPATE IN STATE FAIR PARADE

G. W. Dickinson, secretary manager of the Michigan State Fair, estimates that 150 passenger cars will participate in the third annual automobile parade which will feature the opening of the seventy-sixth annual Michigan State Fair, Friday, September 4.

The parade will form downtown on one of the streets parallel to Woodward avenue, proceed south to Jefferson avenue and then swing south to Woodward and straight out that thoroughfare to the fair grounds. The parade will form at 5:30 p. m. and the line will move at 8 o'clock, arriving at the grounds at 7 o'clock. The cars will circle the race track, passing before the grandstand and judges' box, where trophies will be awarded for the best decorated cars. Entries are limited to dealers and manufacturers, but they may enter as many different types of cars as they make or sell.

Un's boy...
I had a list of stocks and bonds that look very favorable to me. Take this stuff Helen, handing an armful of folders to Aunt Emmy. "The stock is pretty good. The man said it would be good at 20 on the close a month after it is put out. I can buy shares now at two dollars. I would make eighteen dollars for every two dollars I invest and all in the course of four weeks." Helen passed out breath while Aunt Emmy looked at the folder.

"I were to buy those White Lake nono chickens of yours," remarked Aunt Emmy "would you promise me that your stock will sell for one dollar and a half a dozen a month from now?"

"Of course not, Aunt!" laughed Helen. "The price of eggs depends entirely on the supply and demand in the market."

"Well, how about stocks? Why can't you man promise you this stock will be selling for twenty dollars a month from now?"

"Well, I don't know exactly, but the prices on the stock exchange are different, aren't they?"

"The prices of stocks, quoted on the stock exchange are influenced by supply and demand, but the prices of eggs. No one can honestly guarantee the future price of any stock. A promoter who urges you to buy stock on any such guarantee is misinforming you. A stock salesman who could trust would never make such a state ment. If you are going to listen to such talk you'd better put your money in the savings bank."

"But I wouldn't make so much on it!" objected Helen.

"Big profits mean big risks, and you cannot afford to take risks," said Aunt Emmy. "The house that gets out this booklet is unknown to you. Why don't you find out who you are dealing with?"

"How can I find out about the thousands of stock houses in the United States?"

"Well," said Aunt Emmy, "if you insist on considering making investments, you ought to at least take the trouble to go to your bank and find out about the people you are dealing with."

"I didn't know banks would bother with anything but actual banking," Helen said.

"They are glad to," Aunt Emmy said. "The more people that save and invest money wisely the better it is for the banks."—A. B. Army.
