Why She Is Tired Out

A WOMAN who does her housework in the manner of her grandmother, that is to say, without the aid of electrical appliances, walks in the doing of her regular domestic tasks, an average of 15 miles a day, or 5475 miles a year.

With electrical help the footwork is cut down to an average of 2½ miles a day, or less than 1000 miles a year.

These figures are the result of tests made with the aid of a pedometer. Surely it is better to wear out machinery than human beings?

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

(Little Editorials picked up by the Staff in and around Birmingham.)

James Anderson, local Chief of Police: "Of this I am sure: any boy under 17 years of age who is sent to a jail is nearly sure to come out with the tendencies of a crook in his mind. Many young boys commit some slight misdemeanor, and are sent to a penal institution; God help them from then on—for there is little actual reforming done in our so-called 'houses of correction.'"

John J. Gafiff, of Southfield avenue: "Several times in the past we have voted down the elevated tank proposition. However, I am sure that the people on the west side of Birmingham, whose water supply is seldom hampered, will sympathize with those who live on the high ground east of Woodward avenue and will work for the approval of the elevated tank next month at our special election. I confess that I have opposed the tank idea in the past, but I certainly will do what I can to get water for all of Birmingham, and if the elevated tank will do the trick, I am open to conviction."

Loren G. Stauch, local real estate man: "Many people bemoan the fact that they did not, during recent months, take advantage of real estate opportunities by investing here. They believe that there is no longer such an opportunity. I believe that, when Woodward avenue is opened, this section will experience an almost unbelievable influx of Detroit residents. This will make present prices of lands sour; certainly, in my estimation, there are still greater opportunities than ever to make money here on real estate."

Morris Wattles, Supervisor of Troy township: "I think that the ultimate center of population of Troy township will center at Big Beaver. All the activity in the past has been in Clawson Village, but the completion of many new roads in Troy township points to Big Beaver as the coming scene of building activity. For it is at Big Beaver that most of the good roads will intersect."

Thomas D. Lynch of Frank street: "In a letter I received from Charles H. McCurdy on his vacation, he says of the Exchange Club: 'I think of you Tuesday noons, though I am here by the great lakes, cooling off my fevered brow, swimming to get my skin nice and free from dirt, eating to gain strength and brains to match with you at the club this winter, and reading some so that now and then I may say a word of some meaning to it. I am having a very happy time, and mother seems to enjoy it too, but alas I shall have no such stories to tell as Charley Bingham is now spreading around Birmingham. I suppose the size and number of his fish grown with each relating to the unsophisticated dwellers in the best little town out of Detroit. Nevertheless, I hope to tell a tale when I return, for tomorrow, if nothing happens, I am going on a tour of personal investigation of those delightful spots in Ontario, to find out just what they did, anyhow. We expect to take the Blue Water Route out of Sarnia to Georgian Bay, then to Lake Nipissing and Nipissing, going into Cobalt, where we can't be far from Birmingham wandered those many years ago, and on whose account no more from Birmingham will be wanted in that connection again. Then over to the Soo and down and Traverse City, Portage River to the cottage where we will rest up for our return journey. I shall hold nothing back as to what I find on this trip at all the late junket tour of the village teacher and undertaker and board of supervisors, the pride of the Exchange Club, Charles Always Smiling Bingham. I shall tell the naked truth in all its cruel starkness, and not like the fellow who swore to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth and, so help my lawyer."

Mrs. A. J. Bruce, Oakland avenue: "We just got back last Saturday from a two weeks' fishing trip in northern Michigan and Canada. We had wonderful luck in Canada on the Goulais River, but we caught few fish when we returned to Michigan. One day we caught thirty pounds of mountain trout up in Canada. Another day on the Goulais river we caught a pickerel that weighed twenty-five pounds."

W. C. Needham, a member of the Birmingham detachment of the Michigan State Police: "The detachment of State Police that has been working in the vicinity of Birmingham certainly appreciates the courtesies shown them by village and township officials during the past few weeks. The village policemen, sheriff, judge and other officers have all cooperated with us in every way during the establishment of our unit in Birmingham."

John M. Caves, who passed through Birmingham on a visit on the last 900 miles of his around the world trip with a wheelbarrow: "The securing of the signatures of the crowned heads of Europe and the East is not nearly as difficult as getting the signatures of the county and city officials in this country. The town mayor is always off around the corner somewhere and will usually be back in a few minutes. As soon as I get the governor of Michigan's seal and signature I will have the name of every governor in the United States to take back to Boston with me."
