How to Own a Packard Six

MANY men and women wonder how some of their friends can afford to own a Packard Six

They naturally associate Packard beauty, distinction and performance with a cost which they feel is beyond

But their friends who buy Packard Six cars are the more truly economical. They know that depreciation is the largest item of expense in operating a short life or yearly model car. And they know that the new Packard Six with the improvements which insure long life will cut their depreciation cost in half.

The wise motor car buyer has discovered that it is far less expensive to purchase a Packard Six on time and keep it for five, six or seven years than to pay slightly less for one-half or one-third the mileage.
