

JACKIE COOGAN in "Little Lord Crusoe"

A Frisco Lad Frisking Through A South Sea Romance

A TRAMP SCHOONER—a wreck in a South Sea typhoon, cast up on a desert island—cannibals, bananas, coconuts, monkeys, black cats—wireless messages—the attack—the marines—the San Francisco police force—adventure, romance, characterization comedy, and—Jackie Coogan! You can't put more than that in one motion picture play.

BACK IN THE ROLE OF A REAL AMERICAN KID!—After adventuring abroad in the films as the Prince in "Long Live the King" and as the Belgian lad in "A Boy of Flanders," he's now just plain Micky Hogan, of San Francisco.

Dr. Lloyd G. Campbell was born at Goodrich, Michigan, Feb. 22, 1883. He was graduated from Birmingham high school and entered the Medical Department of the University of Michigan in 1903, from which he was graduated in 1908. After graduation he entered National Military Service at Marion, Indiana, where he spent five years, being then transferred to the hospital at Leavenworth, Kansas. He resigned from the service in May, 1916, returning at that time to Birmingham to engage in practice with his father, Dr. L. G. Campbell.

He entered the World War in May, 1918, and was connected with the hospital at Baltimore for blind soldiers. He resumed practice here on his return and remained until May, 1922, leaving to re-enter military service as senior surgeon at Danville, Illinois. He was taken ill a year ago and died Feb. 3, 1925, at the same hospital in which he first served at Marion, Ind.

Funeral services were held at the home of his father on East Maple avenue, Friday, Feb. 6th, conducted by Rev. W. C. McKnight, of the Presbyterian church, of which Dr. Campbell was a member. Mrs. Enck Potter was the soloist. During the service Caswell Clinton, secretary of Kansas City, represented the Michigan Sovereigns, Grand Master of Scottish Rite Masonry presented the ring to the widow, son, with their military extensions. Six members of Charles Edward Post American Legion of Birmingham, acted as pallbearers. The burial service was in charge of the local Masonic lodge and was followed by the military salute and eulogy. Dr. Campbell is survived by his widow and two sons, John and Charles.

Will Increase Local Police Force To Five

Chief of Police James Anderson is casting about this week for an eligible local man to fill a position on the Birmingham police force, to begin some time early in March. The vacancy will be created when Officer Myers, who has been working night duty on the Lakeside, is obliged to return to duty as motorcycle policeman during the day time. The addition of another fifth man on the force, and Chief Anderson is anxious to put a local man in the vacancy.

This enlargement of the force becomes necessary, according to the Chief, because the present calling of the office at night makes it imperative to keep two men on duty all night. Officers Green and Myers will patrol the roads on their motorcycles during the daytime while Chief Anderson is on duty in the uptown district. Chief Anderson states "The town is growing so fast and the growth brings with it more use for policemen. Things happen constantly out here, demanding the attention of the police, and before the summer arrives it is possible we will need even more help. On Sunday we have a man at the intersection of Woodward avenue and Maple to direct traffic. It remains to be seen if we will have to have a man on Woodward avenue and Maple at the rush hours, when the warm weather creates more traffic."

Officer Myers was transferred from motorcycle duty last fall when the weather became too severe for patroling. He has been doing night duty during the winter months. Officer Lawler will remain on duty at night.

SEWER WORK ON PIERCE ST. SCHOOL DONE, COST $1,376. Sewers, installed by the Leitch-Humphrey Company, to provide adequate drainage for the new Pierce street school, have recently been completed and will amounting to $1,376. Submitted to the school board for their share of the expense, Leitch-Humphrey Company has agreed to pay one-half of the cost of the work. This sum, submitted Monday night, includes the cost of traveling and finishing the work that was torn up when the sewer was laid.

JUST A JUVENILE QUESTION OF DIF.

A little boy sat in W. I. Deer's barber shop on East Maple avenue Monday morning, undergoing the ordeal of having his hair cut. He had been told to keep his eyes closed during the process for a reason known to even the modern woman of today—though the men have always known it. "Mamma, if he keeps on cutting my hair, and keeps on cutting my hair, and if I have to keep my eyes closed—and if the fire whistle blows—and if the engine comes out, I won't be able to see it. It's just a juvenile question of dif."

Mrs. W. N. Whittemore Speaks For Women At Washington, D. C.

Balances crowded to capacity with representatives from, and sympathizers with the National Woman's Party, greeted the picked committee, headed by Mrs. W. N. Whittemore, when they were met at the hearing of the Judiciary committee from the House and Senate at Washington last week. Mrs. Whittemore, the only Michigan delegate in Washington, held the role of first speaker at the two hearings, one on Wednesday and one on Friday. The principal object of the hearing was to present the Lucretia Mott memorial for consideration. Delegates, quite as deeply concerned in the subject as the National Woman's Party, were heard opposite the amendment, following each of the hearings of Mrs. Whittemore's group. They were women of many positions and organizations, who have taken it upon themselves to make the possibility of this bill passing the Senate and the House.

The lack of a unit National Woman's Party were regaled in the purple and yellow, synonym of the party. They filled the galleries and applauded heartily the addresses of their delegates. Mrs. Whittemore is hopeful for the future of her project, saying, "We had no action from either of the bodies we approached but we asked for an opinion, now. Both Judiciary committees gave us increased optimism. They were given many questions and giving every appearance of being deeply interested in our proposals. This is a move that is going to take time and we are willing to wait," continued Mrs. Whittemore, "but it is our objective on all sides, working both in the state and nationally, although our ultimate aim is to get a states' amendment, but a national amendment."

Mrs. Whittemore resides on Upsilon street in Bloomfield Hills and has for years been an active worker in women's affairs. She was the first chairman of the Michigan Branch, National Woman's Party, preceding Mrs. George T. Hendrie in the chair. PAST-HIGH PRIESTS/TO BANQUET MONDAY EVE. Past High Priest's Night at the local chamber, No. 23 E. A. M. is to be observed Monday night with a banquet and speeches at the Masonic Temple on South Woodford avenue, by past high priests and Royal Arch Masons. The affair this year is dedicated to McAllister Randall, of California, who was the first local high priest of No. 23. Charles J. Shain, Long 33 McAllister, John H. Starr, Ernest L. Boney, James H. Terry, Otto Englewood, Roy Montgomerie and George Perrester, of Birmingham. Following the banquet, homage will be paid to the departed past high priests, who have passed beyond, and reminiscences given by a number of the older members.

WHITTEMORE RAISING VARIETY OF FLOWERS

City dwellers passing through, and even residents of the village and hills themselves, sing long and often of the beauties of the gardens, fields and posy dotted hillides here. They insist that Michigan plants thrive best in the local sunshine.

This year, however, beautiful Eastern and California dahlias, in the garden of Nelson Whittemore, of Upsilon road, lend to the vicinity a new claim to fame. "Whittemore gardens" are filled with numerous colored dahlias of all shapes and sizes, already well acclimated. Some have come from the south, from the east, from the West. Among the flowers are such a few of the rare scented variety, developed exclusively by Mr. Whittemore two years ago. Mr. Whittemore has just issued a new catalogue describing his gardens.

VILLAGE AND STATE OFFICIALS AGREED ON 160-FT. WOODWARD

(Continued from Page 1) later when the Grand Frank removes the truck to some point eastward. Village officials, discussing this plan, declare that the removal of the tracks is no excuse for a future possibility that Birmingham can afford to take no chances on the state building a highway over it five or ten years hence. They believe that any paving constructed over it in the future would have to be paid for entirely by local taxation.

Miss Virginia Righter, of Richmond, Ind., was a guest last week at the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Tugsey, on Pleasant avenue. Miss Righter is a harpist with the Rita Mafio Concert Company, which played in Detroit last week.

Second Benefit Tea. The second of a series of benefit teas, being given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the local First Methodist Church, occurred Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. Koot on Madison avenue. Mrs. Eugene E. Stachler, of Lincoln avenue, assisted the hostess at the tea table. She will also assist Mrs. Lester Stussler, who is to be hostess of the tea next Tuesday at her home on Pierce street. The affair next Tuesday will be a Martha Washington party, which is a happy innovation in the series. Proceeds from these teas will be added to the present Aid treasury.

Obituary

William Bleisath, of Chestnut street, died Friday, February 6, as a result of heart trouble. He was 48 years of age. Funeral services were held Monday from the Daines and Bell Chapel, Rev. David Curry, in charge. Burial took place at the Mt. Carmel cemetery in Ulen.

Mr. Bleisath is survived by eight brothers and sisters. They are Mrs. Lester Drisk, Mrs. John Weiser, David Bleisath, of Birmingham, Herman Bleisath, of Pontiac, John Bleisath, of Detroit, George, of Brooklyn, and Fred, of Napoleon.

With the first approach of spring a number of local citizens will dig out the household paint brush and brighten things up with paints and varnishes, won last Saturday from the Birmingham Wallpaper Co., on West Maple avenue, for the winners were Ross Adams, who was given enough paint to refinish his home; Harry Staley, wallpaper for one room; George Stephenson, Milton Barta, L. J. Baygan and I. Falgout, one quart each of paint, and varnish, and Miss Florence Staley and Mrs. Ahluwalek, each a gallon of paint or varnish.
