SOCIETY

Lenten Season Casts Lull Over Village And Hills Society

The Lenten season with the perfect lull that it brings to society has already cast a forerunner over the village and hills society. At a time when the social rush is usually at its height, few parties of any formality have marked the week, with the exception of the two elaborate teas for some hundred guests at the home of Mrs. Leigh Lynch on Dorchester Road who entertained to introduce Mrs. S. W. Bredo, who has just recently moved with her family on Linden Road. The guest list for these teas included a great number of the village matrons and many of the new comers.

Probably the lack of interest displayed in the more formal affairs is because of the great depletion in the ranks of "those who go", due to the great numbers that have flocked to the southern watering places to avoid meeting the harsh March winds. Word floats back frequently of the many familiar faces seen in Florida at the numerous desirable resorts and, almost daily, new departures are booked.

The most important affair that is upon the calendar for the married folks is their dance on Tuesday next in the I. O. O. F. Temple. This is the last on the series of eight dances sponsored during the winter by the Michigan League and bids fair to be the most elaborate they have ever attempted.

The invitations read "We are coming en masque, Are you?" and the answer is invariably "Yes". It is planned that the hall will give every evidence of a scene from the mardi gras with confetti and confetti in great profusion.

Mrs. Lee White is chairman of the committee arranging the decorations and no effort is to be spared in making the hall perfect for the dance.

Many small dinner parties are scheduled to precede the dance and among the larger and more festive of these are three, one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ostegman in Oak Knobs, who will have a party of about twenty. Mr. and Mrs. Verne Burnett of Brookside Drive will have a large number of the "younger marrieds" as their dinner guests at their home on Brookside Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Shaw have invited a party to have dinner at their home on Pierce street, also.

"SEASON LUNCHEON" TO BE NOVEL AFFAIR HERE

A luncheon, of unusual attractions, is entertained for Wednesday, February 25, that gives promise of making a bright spot on week's social register and has been arranged by members of the third division of the Ladies Church society of the First Presbyterian Church. The name of "Season Luncheon" has been attached to the affair and is very applicable in that each of the four tables, seating twenty-five guests a piece, will represent one of the four seasons.

The waitress attending the wants of the guests at the various tables will be attired in the costume of the season of her particular table. "Autumn" will hustle about in, say perhaps, a dress of orange and red leaves, while "Winter" will whirl about her duties in a snowy down of white with "Spring" and "Summer" gay in the colors of their lovely seasons. The tables will be laid with regard to the seasons as well.

Mrs. E. G. Potter of Oakland avenue is general chairman of the luncheon and is to be assisted by a committee of her workers in division three.

Pre-Lenten Teas Ended Monday

The last of a series of pre lenten teas under the general chairmanship of Mrs. W. W. Raymond was held Monday afternoon at the community house. Although it had been originally planned that there should be five teas before Lent, enough extra names were added to the guest list of each tea to make the last one unnecessary. The main reason for this change of arrangement was due to the press of just-before-Lent affairs by local clubs and organizations. Hostesses and assisting hostesses at Monday afternoon's tea were Mrs. Godfrey Strelinger, Mrs. Frederick Good, Mrs. Richard Coombes, Mrs. Stowe Baldwin, and Mrs. Earl Smith. Decorations mainly depended on vivid orange candles which cast a soft glow over the bridge tables. Proceeds from this series of teas will be added to the remodeling fund of the house.

St. James' Parish

Members of St. James' Parish and Church school teachers met last evening at a reception in the church parlors, especially planned for the purpose. Mrs. Raymond Reilly, as head of the program committee, and Mrs. John Gadill, Mrs. Walter M. Giles, and Mrs. Frank Miller on the reception committee, arranged and helped in entertainments during the evening.

Shaws Go To Texas

Expecting to be away for several months, Mr. and Mrs. N. Shaw, of south Woodward avenue left last Thursday evening for the southwest. They will stop in New Orleans, Nashville, and other interesting places before going to Brownsville, Texas, where they will spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. William T. Craft, brother and sister of Mrs. Shaw. The date of their return is indefinite.

At Detroit Golf Club

Mrs. W. D. Thompson of the Thirteen Mile Road was a guest this afternoon at the bridge party at the Detroit Golf Club when Mrs. William J. Belknap of Colorado avenue, Detroit, entertained. Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Miller of Merrill street will be listed among the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lyday of Longfellow avenue, Detroit, who will be hosts at a dinner party at the Detroit Yacht Club.

Entertains Church Club

The third division of the Ladies of the Presbyterian Church were guests of Mrs. W. C. Russell, last Friday afternoon, who entertained the members at tea at her home on Brown street, about her rooms Mrs. Russell used bowls of pink tea roses which lent unusual charm.

Millers Entertain At Valentine Party

St. Valentine's day served as a decorative inspiration at a party last Saturday night, when Mr. and Mrs. John Miller were hosts to twelve of their Birmingham friends at a supper and card party at their home on West Maple Road. Spring flowers in the valentine shades were used and red hearts and cupids were in profusion about the living and dining rooms. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thurber, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Masters, Misses Marion and Lillian Masters, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bassett and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trebblecock.

Valentine Dance Is Given By Hi-Y Club

The Valentine dance given by local Hi-Y men Saturday night at the I. O. O. F. Temple on Pierce street was a colorful event. Gaily gowned girls and men in their darker attires danced beneath a roof of white crepe paper sprinkled with hearts of red. Jean Goldkette and his orchestra of Detroit, furnished the music from a red and white bower in a corner of the room. Irwin Neff, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Neff of West Maple Avenue, was general chairman of the dance.

Guests of Thomas G. Klingensmith of Bloomfield Hills, after the dance, at an informal midnight lunch, were Misses Dorothy Pote, Parkes Pinson, Miss Mary White, Miss Jean Thompkins, and Messrs. Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hull, of Wyandotte, cousins of the host, chaperoned the party.

Washington Benefit Bridge

Washington's Birthday decorations make up the especially appropriate setting for St. Margaret's Guild benefit bridge Tea, Monday, February 23, at Mrs. T. R. Donovan has general charge of arrangements and prizes to be given at the tea, which will be in the basement of St. James Church on West Maple avenue and Chester street. Women in charge of other arrangements are Mrs. Melvin Kates, tea; Mrs. H. W. Potter, tables; and Mrs. K. K. Hoagg, tickets.

To Introduce Friends

Eight of the Birmingham married set have been invited to an informal bridge dinner next Monday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mr. Fitzgibbons, former Mrs. Wall, will have a small party of friends at the St. Margaret's benefit bridge to meet Mrs. Fitzgibbons.

Afternoon Bridge-Tea

At her home on Park street, Mrs. Ward Cruickshank entertained this afternoon at bridge-tea. Her six tables, where she seated guests from Detroit, and Birmingham, were arrayed in cherries, hatchets and tiny American flags associated with the season. The tea table where Mrs. Cruickshank poured after bridge, was very effective with an arrangement of red spring flowers. On Monday evening of this week Mr. and Mrs. Cruickshank entertained twelve at an evening bridge and buffet supper at their Park street home.

Detroit Bridge-Luncheon

Mrs. Seymour Adams of Adams avenue, Mrs. Garner Miller, of Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. F. G. Crawford, and Mrs. T. B. Smith, of East Maple avenue, are among the local women who are guests today, at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. William Hutchinson, in her Detroit home. Mr. Zimmerman is president of the First National Bank in Pontiac and Mr. Pelton is a Pontiac attorney.

Cleveland Guests

Mrs. Robert P. Edwards of Cleveland, arrived Wednesday of this week to be the guest of her daughter, Miss Jane Edwards, and will be the guest of the C. H. Yaxleys on East Maple avenue for a week or ten days. On Friday evening they were among the guests at a dinner given by Mrs. Yaxley, honoring Mr. Yaxley's birthday anniversary.

Honoring Mrs. S. W. Bredo

The two much talked of and planned for buffet luncheons, prominent on the local social calendar this month in honor of Mrs. S. W. Bredo, of linden road, were given this week at the home of Mrs. Leigh Lynch, on Dorchester road. The first, for town guests alone, was on Tuesday afternoon; the second, to which both Birmingham and Detroit women had been invited, was this afternoon.

Edison Co. To Give Dance

Personnel from the Detroit and district offices of the Detroit Edison company have received invitations for the past week to an informal dance, to be given here in the community house on Tuesday, February 24, sponsored by the girls employed in the local office. Teddy Gatcke's orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music and about forty-five couples are expected. Included among the names of those who will receive are the Misses Dorothy Cornell, Ruth Wall, Carmire Code, Genevieve Wahl, Doris Groves, Irene Cook, Thelma Morrow, and Delia Mills.

Box Social and Card Party

A series of brilliant social affairs have dotted the calendar of the Eastern Star since last autumn and a group of other functions are now being planned and will fill out the less socially important months of spring. The first of the remaining parties, anticipated by this lodge, is a box social and card party, Saturday evening, the first week. A novel arrangement for this party has been planned so that with the purchase of a box of lunch, the purchaser also gets a partner for the evening and the card game charge is included in the cost of the supper. The women are all expected to prepare a box lunch. Mrs. Roy D. Montgomery, assisted by Mrs. George Forrester, is to act as hostess of the occasion, which will be held in the Masonic Temple.

Plan Rummage Sale

All members are urged to come.
