NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS AT THE BALDWIN THEATRE

Starting next Sunday, March 15th, and for that day only, Harry Carey, the Western favorite will be presented in his very latest film feature "Soft Shoes" together with a special bill of 5 high-class Vaudeville acts and the Pathe Review. The show on Sundays runs continuous from 2:30 till 11 p. m.

"Empty Hands" a gripping tale of the Canadian wilderness, featuring Jack Holt and Norma Shearer will be the filth feature on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 16-17-18th. Vaudeville of a high-class nature and the Pathe news will complete the bill. Two shows nightly will be presented at 6:45 and 9:00 p. m.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 19-20-21st, Peter the Great, the screen's greatest dog actor will be seen in "The Silent Accuser" a thrilling and dramatic mystery story. This attraction will appeal to adults as well as the children owing to the clever man-hunt in it which is led by this remarkable and extremely well-trained dog. Raymond McKee and others well known in the pictures are in the supporting cast. Five all-star vaudeville acts and the Pathe News will round out the program.

Ricardo Cortez, Louise Dresser and others are the featured players in "The City That Never Sleeps" which is the current attraction the last three days of this week. Vaudeville and other novelties are also to be shown.

Glittering Gloria Swanson in "Wages of Virtue" is being announced as a coming attraction in the near future. Also the announcement of the showing in the near future of "He Who Gets Slapped" featuring Lon Chaney has caused no end of comment among the thousands of patrons of the popular Baldwin Theatre.

"SIMON CALLED PETER" AT THE GARRICK THEATRE NEXT WEEK

It is not too long after the war for a play of the quality of "Simon Called Peter," which comes to the Garrick Theatre Sunday night for a return engagement of one week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, to appeal to everyone. It is one of the plays that the war has brought us. It has provoked much discussion and has stirred no little resentment; but few who condemn it for its utter frankness or who take issue with it in its big problems will question that it is a play of real distinction, both in its manner and its matter. As a war play it is wholly a story of life that existed far behind the lines. Yet in its entire action only one man is killed, and he is far off and the lines by a bit of shell in an air raid. It is here that the Rev. Capt. Peter Graham finds that the only consolation he can give to the dying soldier is a cigarette. This experience and many others are quite typical of the one which Peter finds himself facing throughout the action of the play. We find the Church of England minister searching for God and for his own soul in strange places and with strange companions of both sexes. That search is the theme of this daring and remarkable play. Julie is a remarkable heroine—no one we will forget. Though she is a nurse from South Africa, she is essentially French in her characteristics. Julie stands for a woman's love, for its intoxication, its wayward fancy and its tenderness, and she is very human in the play. "Simon Called Peter" should interest us all because it deals with conditions of the lives of those whom all of us have been far too prone to forget. It will be presented in Detroit by the same exceedingly capable company that played the Garrick last November, which includes Bettie Wales, Charles Warburton, Andree Rondel, Wilfred Jessop, June Derion, Robert Harrigan, Herbert Dedens, Richard Clark, Barry Whitcomb, Jack Parry and Jack Murtag.

AT THE BONSTELLE

New Detroit theatrical history is being made by the Bonstelle Company at the Bonstelle Playhouse, which is now offering "The Goose Hangs High" for a second week to capacity crowds; in fact the demand for seats has influenced Miss Bonstelle to keep this play by Lewis Beach over for a third week, beginning Monday, March 13th.

"The Goose Hangs High" proved one of the finest plays brought to the Garrick Theatre this season and less than six weeks ago enjoyed a run of a fortnight at that theater, turning away people at every performance. Its hold and fascination is easy to understand as the story is duplicated in thousands of American homes. The Ingals have made every sacrifice in order that their children might go to college. The Christmas vacation arrives and the parents plan on a big dinner and a family reunion. The children rush in and almost immediately rush out again to a dansant, taking Father's automobile with them, leaving Father and Mother to eat the "fatted calf." The pain is intensified when it is made apparent that the Father is daily suffering humiliation in order to hold his position so that he can continue sending his children to college. Do they accept this sacrifice willingly? Grandmother takes a hand in the affairs of the Ingals household and tells a few plain truths to the children, who demonstrate they are quite as capable of sacrifice as the parents. It is a play of great depths, keen humor and an occasional tear that author Beach gives us as fascinating theatrical fare.

Wanted: Lowest Bid On Good Baby Rattle

Jack Wilson, of Townsend street, is Birmingham's champion vote-getter. At least it would seem so from one method used by him at the annual township primary last Saturday. Going to one home in town, by asked if the husband and wife had voted.

"Not yet," they replied, "we can't get away together because we've got to have somebody here to care for the baby." Whereupon Jack—who has some of his own—assumed another juvenile charge while the parents went to the polls.

And he did all this despite the fact that his wife, a candidate for township treasurer, was unopposed for the office. Some of the local boys are going to buy Jack a regular old-fashioned rattle, to be used in future elections.
