At the beginning of the year the team was made up of entirely new material as the team had passed out with the graduation class last June. For a new team, they have left a splendid reputation behind them for the year.

Holy Cats!—And His Auto Claps a Tree

(By Helen V. Walker.)

It has always been supposed quite generally that, with the passing of the horse and carriage and the coming of the automobile, one was practically assured against run-aways. But, like all other good superstitions, and rumors, there is an external exception. George Hebblewhite has proved that automobiles can only run on the garage.

Farking his car in quite the customary manner, one afternoon this week in front of his daughter's house on North Woodward avenue, Mr. Hebblewhite went in for a short cut that he had been accustomed to find without his knowledge.

Sitting down for a quiet ten minutes to assemble his thoughts he endeavored to recall if he really had remembered distinctly having parked the car and called loudly for the motorcycler, rushed to the scene taking up their pads and pencils the minutes to assemble his thoughts he endeavored to recall if he really had remembered distinctly having parked the car and called loudly for the motorcycler, rushed to the scene taking up their pads and pencils the

Levinson Will Build Block On West Maple

Receiving a name that for many years was one of the most prominent in the village, Merris Levinson plans to call the new business block that he is building the "Frank Blakelee Block." Particularly appropos is this name for the block as it will occupy the site on West Maple avenue where the old Frank Blakelee home has stood for almost half a century.

Excavation for the new block starts today and it is expected that within 30 days the block will be completed and the store space ready for occupancy. The building is to have two store rooms and an automobile showroom fronting on Maple avenue, and in the rear there is to be a garage that will occupy the remainder of the lot.

For the present only one floor of the building will be erected.

Wurster and Stapleton, local automobile dealers now the Field block, will occupy the show room and garage. Harry Singer, paint and wall paper dealer, will occupy another one of the store rooms. The entire frontage of the building on Maple avenue will be about 100 feet. The building will be of brick and stone construction.

At the same time the building will stand was recently purchased by Mr. Levinson from Fred V. Quaron and Mr. Quaron has re-purchased the house that occupied the lot and is on a new site on Edges street.

Mr. Levinson is making it into a two apartment dwelling. To save the old trees on West Maple street it was necessary to build the building down Maple avenue, which was accomplished between the hours of 8 o'clock, but right mid 6 o'clock.

The house was for many years the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Levinson and Mr. Levinson here for years, they were close friends. Mr. Levinson is naming the building for the sake of the friends.

Nearly Two Million Expended On Walsh, James & Wasey Lands

Figures now released indicate that over a million dollars will be spent during the balance of 1925, for Birmingham Estates, James & Wasey Company developments in Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills. This shows a very great activity in Birmingham and the Hills district, and particularly it shows the high type of homes that are going up.

The actual figures as given by Jay A. Walsh, president of Walsh, James & Wasey Company, are as follows:

Quarton Lake Estates	$130,000.00
Birmingham Park	43,000.00
Coryell Park	58,000.00
Chesterfield	3,000.00
Tooting Lane	25,000.00
Brookside Hills Estates	47,000.00
Donnelly Farms Estates	180,000.00
Birmingham Forest Hills	210,000.00
Birmingham Estates	140,000.00
East Maple Gardens	38,500.00
Golf View Heights	24,000.00
Turtle Lake	14,000.00
Total	$908,500.00

The total of $908,500, said Mr. Walsh, "will undoubtedly be spent by homes of which we now have no accurate knowledge. When the year is over we expect the figures will show considerably in excess of a million dollar building program."

These figures, it was pointed out, do not include homes built since the first of the year nor homes actually under construction at this time.

The figures for these homes now under construction are as follows:

Quarton Lake Estates	$122,000.00
Birmingham Park	30,000.00
Coryell Park	20,000.00
Chesterfield	5,000.00
Tooting Lane	15,000.00
Birmingham Estates	22,000.00
East Maple Gardens	18,000.00
Golf View Heights	10,000.00
Turtle Lake	5,000.00
Total	$247,000.00

This amount of building, together with the building to be done during the remainder of the year, will undoubtedly mean more than $2,000,000 invested in new homes on Walsh, James & Wasey Company developments, it is believed.

ECO CITY, GROWING RAPIDLY ADOPTS NEW NAME OF "SOUTH BIRMINGHAM"

Detroit has very recently purchased 100 lots from the Leimbach-Hunt phreay, owners of the subdivision, and will build as many homes before the start of the season. These have been held up a short time awaiting the laying of the new county drain that will follow the Pierce street road. Until that is completed the subdivision owners have installed temporary drains for the homes already built.

It is expected by men in touch with the work in the subdivision, that Eco City, with few exceptions, both private, either be incorporated as a separate village or will have petitioned Birmingham for annexation. In the meantime, a new name has been adopted and the subdivision is to be called "South Birmingham" in the future instead of Eco City, which was originally given to the plan. "Eco" was selected as it came from Etymological, which was what the subdivision was featuring in the way of lot prices and homes.

According to records of the subdivision, the fourteenth of the men owning homes in the subdivision are Ford factory workers. The places have, with few exceptions, been purchased on a contract. The first homes built were left unfinished inside and have been completed since by the owners. On the east side of the subdivision, however, the homes were high complete and more modern than the first homes of three years ago.

If the population of the subdivision 2000 that is expected by the first of 1926 Eco itself will have more than one-half the number of people who appeared on the census rolls of the village of Birmingham five or six years ago.

Anna E. Lullin, director of the parade, the principal character all concerned and ready for dress rehearsal.

The Pageant depicts the story of women through all the ages struggling for equality. The outstanding portion of history which will appear before the gaze of the audience will be women well known in their particular field of endeavor. The program will be read by our own Jessie Bonzelle, whose work in the theatrical field is exceeded by none in the city. The first tableau opens with Mrs. E. E. Lemington as womanhood.

Episode I is called "Bondage to Freedom." The first figure is Queen Tyti of Egyptian fame, portrayed by Mrs. C. M. Hocker. Mrs. Calvin Pitts Vary will be Queen Nishi and Sappho, whose fame has gone before her, will be done by Mrs. Louis Gomon. Then to the tone of the Tales of Hoffman, 12 lovely young women will give a Grecian dance. In the Roman period, Mrs. Ralph Swinworth will be Hortensia. Mrs. Richard T. Galtmore will be Mary Wollstonecraft of old England and Miss Virginia Glanz will direct a historical dance of the period.

A flower dance will open Episode II, and then will follow the scenes which we are more familiar with. The Convention of 1848 at Seneca Falls, Mrs. Fred Vanover will be Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Mrs. Gail Letzler Mott and Mrs. Frank Briscoe, James Mott, who presided over the national convention.

Episode III will show the beloved Sappho, Anthony, Mrs. James Black, Mrs. J. B. Green, who is associated with flowers by little children. A group of women from the present time in their native costume will follow this.

Episode IV, brings us to the present time with the figure of Inez Mill, hand blazing the way. This lovely and spectacular character, every inch a leader, will be played by Dora Stevens of New York City, the wife of Dudley Field Malone, who it will be remembered, secured his position as collector of the Port of New York, because President Wilson failed to keep his campaign promise to women. Miss Steven was an intimate friend of Inez Mill and it was into her arms she fell when she was taken mortally ill on the platform of the
