

MOTHER'S DAY

"The noblest thoughts my soul can claim, the holiest words my tongue can frame, unworthy are to praise the name more precious than all other, an infant when he first came, a man I find it just the same, reverently I breathe the name, the blessed name of mother."

—Cecilia de Castro Ferrer

IN Extending our greetings to mothers, we can only add that here they will always find a welcome and a desire to serve and protect in every way we can.

Mrs. Hoover Holten Is In Real Estate Here

Mrs. Hoover Holten, operating under the name of L. E. Holton, Realtor, has taken the former home of Carrie Aldrich on North Woodward avenue for office. Mrs. Holten is familiar to real estate dealers here. For three years she was connected with the local Judson Bradway branch offices, first as office manager and later as saleswoman. Since last fall she has been operating in the village and through Bloomfield Hills privately, and has been responsible for the transfer of several important pieces of property.

Through Mrs. Holten, who represented the two parties, the Aldrich property where Mrs. Holten is situated, and through Bloomfield Hills, Detroit. Within a short time the house on the property is to be disposed of and the owners will build. They expect to have store rooms and a part of the building for a restaurant, similar to their Detroit business. Mrs. Holten expects to occupy a suite of offices in the building when it is completed.

Mrs. Holten is said to be the only woman operating her own offices in this section. With the aid of her help, she expects to handle all of her sales this season without the addition of other salesmen.

LIBRARY LOSES COPY OF VALUABLE PAPER

By Louise Hastings. Thieves entered the Baldwin Public Library some time over the week-end and made off with many needed articles. Just how the sticky fingered personage were able to get by the police station with their dirty work, where James Anderson, feet on desks craving for excitement, is not known.

The publisher of the Eccentric, when learning of the episode, declared himself in favor of sending, free of charge, a year's subscription to the one who stole the article from the library.

known. The most skilled detectives of the Birmingham police force will be set to work upon the case shortly to determine whether some one tried to do a bit of philanthropic work or just committed an outright crime by removing The Eccentric from the reading table. According to officials at the library, the inquisitive gentlemen need only take one sweeping glance at last week's Eccentric to determine the truth of the situation. The publisher of the Eccentric, when learning of the episode, declared himself in favor of sending, free of charge, a year's subscription to the one who stole the article from the library.
