Turning The Tables

"Three gallons of gas, please."

"Yes sir. Want some cylinder oil, too?"

"No, just gas."

"Do you want some paint? Your car needs it, and we've got some dandy paint—heat-proof, dirt-proof guaranteed to wear long."

"No. I want only gas today."

"Then you want your car washed?"

"I said that I wanted only gas."

"You want a tire, then. We've got some good non-skids. Only $40 apiece. Want one?"

"I tell you, I want only gas today."

"Yes, sir, but—say, your rear lights are all shot to pieces. You need new ones. We just got in some dandy new crack-proof celluloid lights. Shall I put some in?"

"No. I want only gas, do you understand?"

"Your magneto needs adjusting—do you hear that funny noise in the motor when you stopped? It needs adjusting. I'll fix it, what?"

"No. I want only gas, GAS! Do you hear?"

"Yes, sir!" And with the gas obtained the exasperated motorist drove angrily away. But for once the garage man had got even with his barber. —The New Yorker.

Out Of The Mouths Of Children

A conjuring show fell rather flat recently. The conjurer said, "Now, ladies and gentlemen, I will show you my very latest trick, but to perform it I must ask some boy from the audience to step up here."

Almost at once a boy arose from his place.

"You'll do," said the conjurer.

The boy marched up to the stage.

"Now, my little man," began the conjurer in a loud voice, "you and I have never seen each other before, have we?"

"No, papa," replied the boy.

"Pacific Coast Motorist."

Different! "I was motoring with Harold last night and he had to stop once because he lost his bearings." "Garry: "Well, at least he was original. Most fellows run out of gas." —Williams Purple Cow.

We Ask You

It takes $12,000,000,000 annually to clothe the American woman from the top of her head to the bottom of her shoes. And what have they got to show for it? —Judge

No Mistake

An American tourist who was motoring in Scotland became lost one evening just as dusk was falling. Spying a lad by the wayside, the Yank asked, "Where are we now?"

"I'll tell ye for a saxepeen," replied the youth, shrewdly.

"It's all right," said the gent from U. S. A., as he turned to his companion. "We're near Aberdeen."

Liverpool Echo.

Prince Albert Says

"They say 'clothes make the man.' Yes, make him get out and hustle to pay for them."

"We like winter better than summer because flies and mosquitos don't."

"The main objection of some men to work is that there are so many other things to do."

"We can remember when girls rubbed red calico on their cheeks to get a ruddy complexion."

"Don't put off till tomorrow anything you can do today, for tomorrow it may be against a law."

"The blister is the official emblem of the man who graduates from the school of experience."

"The man who sings his own praises usually has a bum voice."

"The mother used to say—long time ago—that she preferred girls to boys because they were a help around the house." —Lapser (Mich.) County Press.

When one stops to think about it it's wonderful that the earth is timed to go around exactly once a day.

It would not be so had to marry a girl who is "beautiful but dumb," if she would only stay that way.

Fellows who bought wildcat stocks get little comfort out of the income tax reductions.

The pedestrian may be glad that like a well-known snake, the Ford rattles before it strikes.

Russian edicts are both dictated and Red.

Diplomacy

The Young Bride looking in window of jewelry store: "George I'd love to have that bracelet."

The Husband: "I can't afford to buy it for you, dear."

The Bride: "But if you could, you wouldn't, would you?"

The Husband: "I'm afraid not."

The Bride: "Why?"

The Husband: "It isn't good enough, dear."

The Bride: "Oh, you darling!" —Life.

Doc Mitterling: "You cough easier this morning."

Weary Patient: "I ought to. I have been practicing all night."
