The Christmas Guests by Clearing

THE more I think about it the less I like the idea of having two outsiders at our Christmas dinner.

They were given to understand that it was a family dinner when they were invited. They are friends of one of the members of our family, Ray, and out of courtesy to that person I think it is the least we can do to entertain them.

The boys reached our house soon after breakfast. From that time on they nagged us to get started. They were so afraid that they were going to be late for Christmas dinner that I was in store for them.

They were so afraid that they were going to be late for Christmas dinner that I was in store for them. They were so afraid that they were going to be late for Christmas dinner that I was in store for them.
